ANOTHER BIG FIRE.

Destruction of the Business Part of Linkville.

ABOUT TEN BLOCKS CONSUMED

The Loss Will Be Nearly Two Hundred Thousand Dollars.

LITTLE OR NOTHING WAS SAVED

No Lives Were Lost, but One Man Was Severely Burned—The Losses and the Insurance —A Heavy Blow.

LINKVILLE, Or., Sept. 6.—The business part of Linkville is totally destroyed. Fire broke out in the rear of Forbes's saloon at 2:30 this morning, and in a few minutes the whole building was in flames. All efforts to save either building or store on that block were unavailing.

Smith's hotel across the street was next caught, and then it was seen that that part of the town was doomed. Nearly all business was concentrated here at the river. The bridge across the river was saved by hard work.

The fire then swept eastward, burning Gleim's livery stables, the St. Charles hotel and all the drug stores in town.

The postoffice building was burned, but all the mails, etc., were saved.

Everybody worked heroically to save property, and a great deal was saved east of the point where the fire broke out. The Klamath Star newspaper saved most of the type and both presses.

The town was swept clean from the bridge to the telegraph office.

There were no lives lost. Ben Monroe, barkeeper at Forbes's saloon, was badly burned. He went back into the burning building after some valuables, and the ceiling fell in on him, setting his clothing on fire. Fortunately as he darted out of the building he was met by some one who dashed a bucket of water over him. He is doing well to-night, and will recover.

LOSSES AND INSURANCE.

Following is a partial list of the losses and insurance.

G. W. Smith, merchant and hotel keeper, $40,000; insurance, $12,000.

Baldwin & Forbes, hardware, $30,000; insurance, $6500.

Reames, Martin & Co., general merchandise, $30,000; insurance, $15,000.

J. Gleim, $10,000; insurance, $2000.

Ed. Redfield, 1820; insurance, $450.

H. Kessler, $6500; insurance, $2000.

E. Egert, $2000; insurance, $600.

The following were uninsured:

Forbes's saloon, $10,000.

R. B. Hatton, $2000.

J. Friez, $10,000.

J. W. Hamaker, $1500.

R. W. Roberts, $2000.

Dr. Sumner, $2000.

Paul Breitenstein, $500.

John Redfield, $150.

Mrs. Heidrick, $4000.

W. A. Wright, $2500.

Parker & Cranston, $1500.

R. T. Baldwin, $1500.

I. Lesheard, $300.

Klamath Star, $600.

J. Kessler, $600.

J. Houston, $150.

J. Selmens, $500.

K. Shmiska, $200.

Thomas Greenler, $400.

Mrs. McTyre, $300.

Alex Martin Jr., $600.

The total loss may reach $200,000.

The fire was undoubtedly incendiary, and the reason of the great loss was insufficient means for extinguishing fire. Only two merchandise stores are left, and they carry small stocks. It is a terrible blow and one which it will take the county a long time to recover from, falling as it does on this dry year. Business men, however, are beginning to talk of rebuilding, and the everlasting grit of the Western man comes to the front.

In two hours after the fire started the flames had burned out for lack of fuel. About five blocks on each side of Main street burned.

FROM ELLENSBURGH.

Extensive Preparations Being Made for the Democratic Convention.

ELLENSBURGH, W. T., Sept. 6.—Interviews with delegates returning from the republican convention indicate a sentiment favorable to Tacoma's naming the United States senator from west of the Cascades. Seattle having the governor, they say Tacoma has a claim on the senate, and the name of Walter J. Thompson, president of the Merchants' National bank, of that city, is most prominently mentioned.

The democrats arriving to attend the democratic convention Monday, so far express no opinion as to the nominations, but say they will put the strongest men in the party at the head of their ticket. The name most prominently mentioned for governor is that of ex-Governor Semple.

The republican and democratic ladies have been busily engaged since yesterday decorating Convention hall with flowers, evergreens and flags.

Work is being pushed on the new hotels in order to have them in readiness for the delegates and their friends. Rooms have also been secured by the reception committee at private houses to accomodate the large crowd.

The most important deal ever made in Ellensburgh realty was made to-day, Judge W. H. Armstrong, ex-United States railroad commissioner, purchasing 400 lots for a Philadelphia syndicate. Most of the property is in the vicinity of the grounds dedicated for state capital purposes by Ellensburgh.

The stampede to the Swauk gold district, twenty-five miles north of this city, is increasing. The mother lode, which produced from $100 to $700 nuggets, it is confidently believed, is at last found.

FROM SEATTLE.

A Telephone Lineman Frightfully Burned by Electricity.

SEATTLE, W. T., Sept. 6.—John Nelson, a telephone lineman, was climbing poles this afternoon, with a wire in his hand, and when about twenty-five feet from the ground the line became crossed with an electric power wire. Nelson receiving a current which burned his first finger nearly off, and which threw him shrieking to the ground. In his fall he struck on a pile of brick, receiving injury on the head. Bystanders say that Nelson's finger blazed when the electricity passed through the wire. He will recover.

Electric lights were placed in the Hotel Rainier building to-day, and the carpenters are working night and day. The structure, which is of wood, four stories high, occupies a whole block and will be completed shortly.

The rains of last week have frightened the business men who are living in tents, and has given a tremendous impetus to building.

PORT TOWNSEND NEWS.

Change in Schedule of Puget Sound Mail Steamers—A Child Drowned.

PORT TOWNSEND, Sept. 6.—The Washington Transportation Company contemplates making a change in the schedule of the mail steamers to this place. By the present arrangement letters can not be answered the same day of their arrival, as the steamer departs in the morning, before the incoming mails are delivered. This much-needed change will be welcomed by the business men here, as it will enable them to answer all correspondence on the day of its arrival.

The little son of P. Hall and wife, of Tatoosh light station, was drowned in their cistern the other day. He was sent out by his parents to draw some water, and, being out longer than usual, they went out to look for him and found him in the cistern.

SALEM NEWS ITEMS.

The Southern Pacific Takes Control of the Narrow Gauge Lines.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 6.—The Capital's fire engine team, used in hauling gravel by the city, ran away this afternoon, overturning the wagon, throwing Driver Price out and dragging him 100 yards, spraining his thumb and skinning his ribs. The team was captured without damage.

Manager Koehler, of the Southern Pacific came up on a special train to-day and took a hack for Macleay, where he met Receiver Scott and other officials of the narrow gauge, and it is reported that the Southern Pacific took control of the narrow gauge lines and that such was the purpose of the meeting.

W. L. Bradshaw, of The Dalles, and William Hathaway, of Portland, were appointed notaries public to-day.

FROM ASTORIA.

The Albatross and the Manzanita—The Seaside House Closed.

ASTORIA, Sept. 6.—The United States fishing steamer Albatross proposes steaming southward to-morrow.

The lighthouse tender Manzanita is being repaired. It is expected that the repairs will be completed Monday next.

Carl Epperly came up from Seaside to-day. The house is closed for the season. A large number of Portlanders are still enjoying themselves at Elk creek.

A fierce fire burst from the roof of the Astoria Iron Works at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The cupola was full of molten metal for the foundry. The department got in their usual good work, and put the fire out in the face of a heavy wind. Loss in patterns $450; roof, $150; castings, $50; fully insured.

SERIOUSLY STABBED.

A Printer Savagely Attacked by a Drunken Fellow Workman.

SEATTLE, Sept. 6.—Thomas Strowbridge, a drunken printer, to-night stabbed Robert Todd, a fellow workman, in the composing room of the Morning Journal. The weapon used was a jackknife and Todd received a wound in the forearm and another in the abdomen, the latter being serious. Strowbridge escaped. He came here recently from Portland, and it is said that he killed a man somewhere in Oregon. Todd owed him $4, and it was the refusal to liquidate the debt that led to the crime.

Clarke County Democrats.

VANCOUVER, W. T., Sept. 6.—The democratic mass meeting met at the court house this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The meeting was called for the selection of delegates to the territorial convention which will meet at Ellensburgh Monday next. They selected the following: B. F. Shaw, L. M. Hidden, W. P. Hiddleson, B. F. Tanner and J. A. Munday. After this they completed the organization of the central committee by selecting four new committeemen and a chairman, the latter being W. H. Johnson, and the former P. Hough and H. R. Caples for East and West Vancouver, Campbell for La Center, and Wood for Manor precinct. The democratic primaries for the county ticket will be held Saturday, 14th inst. Mr. J. M. Coulter acted as chairman and H. Schofield as secretary.

Independence Notes.

INDEPENDENCE, Or., Sept. 6.—The contract for grading Main street was let to William Jones for 30 cents a cubic yard. He has a large force already at work.

All the small hop yards have finished picking.

The amount of wheat coming to this point surprises everyone. At least 300,000 bushels will come to Independence, 50,000 to Monmouth, and 250,000 at Rickreal.

The officials of the Southern Pacific railroad passed over the narrow gauge road yesterday, leaving Airlie by team and going to Albany.

DEATH OF PROF. VILLA.

A Frenchman With an Eventful Career on Two Continents.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Professor Pierre Charles Marie Villa died yesterday at his home, 999 Sixth avenue. His death, not altogether unlooked for, was due to a complication of diseases, the principal of which was acute bronchitis.

While comparatively unknown to the general public, Professor Villa experienced wide influence in the circle of the French colony. He was driven from France after the Napoleonic coup d'etat of 1851. He was born in Paris 68 years ago. He quitted the Ecole Polytechnique in his 17th year, and at once plunged into work as a writer on the Parisian press. For ten years Villa acquired reputation as Figaro's dramatic critic.

Villa was one of the first Parisians to condemn the candidacy of Louis Napoleon against Cavaigna in 1848. A friend and admirer of La Martine, he pointed out, nevertheless, the danger that would follow votes being scattered for Raspail, General Chongonier and La Martine himself. His forecast was justified; Cavaigna was defeated.

Villa, in 1851, when forced to leave Paris, took refuge at Geneva. Two years later, despairing of taking up the old free life of the Parisian boulevards, he left Switzerland, reaching New York in August, 1853. For more than fourteen years he spent his leisure time writing wonderfully graphic and picturesque criticisms of New York theatrical performances in the Courier Des Etats Unis.

FOURTEEN NEGROES WHIPPED.

For Holding a Mass Meeting After the Lynching of One of Their Race.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 6.—Wednesday night a negro boy was lynched for rape at East Point, near here.

The negroes held a mass meeting last night to discuss the matter, and the whites, becoming scared, sent for the Atlanta police. No trouble ensued, but after the officers returned to the city a number of white men, whose identity, it is said, is unknown, went to different cabins and severly whipped fourteen negroes. To-day a delegation of reputable citizens reported this to Governor Gordon, and he has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of any one convicted of complicity in the whipping.

HEAVY DAMAGE SUITS.

Two Colored Men Who Were Driven From Their Homes Want $100,000.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 6.—Charles M. Ferguson, ex-district clerk of Fort Bend county, and James R. Davis, engaged as a teacher in the public school of that county, being two of the colored men who were driven out of the county about a year ago, have since taken up their homes at Nashville, Tenn., and have instituted a suit in the United States court against some forty odd leading white citizens of Fort Bend county for damages aggregating $100,000. Ferguson owned a good deal of property in the county, which he had to abandon, as well as his office.

NINE MEN KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

A Remarkable Display of Electric Force in Georgia.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 6.—There was a remarkable display of electric force in South west Georgia this morning near Albany. H. H. Rouse, John Shivers and J. W. Shisor were instantly killed. They were on their way to market with cotton, and sought refuge from the shower under a tree.

Near Hardaway a railway bridge was struck and knocked out of line. Six men who had sought shelter under it were killed. Their names are not reported.

The O'Connor-Searle Boat Race.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 6.—Betting on the O'Connor-Searle boat race is quite lively here now and O'Connor is favorite at five to four. It is estimated that $30,000 is already up on O'Connor in London, and there will be added to this $25,000, all at good odds. Hanlon has made this prophecy on the race: One mile from the start, O'Connor leads a bare length; at Hammersmith bridge, O'Connor leads a length and a half; at Chiswick, O'Connor leads a bare length; at Barnes bridge, Searle leads nearly a length; at the brewery, O'Connor leads about a length; at the finish, O'Connor leads a length and a half.

The Wyoming Convention.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 6.—Fifteen propositions, bearing for the most part on counties and the rights of the people, were submitted to the constitutional convention to-day.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

The General Belief That the Ticket Is a Strong One.

A REVIEW OF THE NOMINATIONS

The Fight for Kinnear Was Brief but to the Point.

SKETCHES OF THE LUCKY MEN

District Nominations—The Contest for the United States Senate—Incidents of the Convention.

WALLA WALLA, Sept. 6.—"It is a strong ticket," is the universal opinion of the delegates and the republican visitors and citizens of Walla Walla. There was but little friction throughout the two days' session of the last territorial, or rather the first state, convention. One would have expected more from its large numbers.

There are just twenty-five days left in which to carry on the campaigning, and while there is no doubt of the success of the entire state ticket by a majority of upwards of 5000, there is a doubt of the legislature, unless some very effective work is done in that direction.

Ex-Governor Ferry sounded the alarm in that direction when called upon for a speech after the nomination. There is where the democratic party intends to concentrate all of its strength, and make all sorts of trades on the capital, woman suffrage and prohibition questions. It will be supplied with plenty of friends and eloquent speakers.

John F. Gowey, of Olympia, president of the First National bank of that place, and H. W. Fairweather, the Sprague bank president, are to run the campaign for the republicans, the former west of the Cascades and the latter east of the mountains. They are old republican workers, and will meet the enemy at Phillipi or anywhere else. The national committee and the Eastern money centers will have confidence in these two men, and more money for legitimate campaign expenses will be forthcoming than at any past period.

Now that the nominations are over, and those who did not get office are satisfied to try it again, and in the meantime fight in the ranks, it makes the outlook for the state ticket as bright and clear as the atmosphere around Walla Walla these charming nights.

The convention was fortunate in getting a good permanent chairman. Though new to the business, he was dignified and had grit enough to keep matters moving along nicely.

WILSON'S NOMINATION.

It was not until 6:20 o'clock Wednesday evening that the announcement was made by Chairman T. L. Stiles that John L. Wilson, of Spokane Falls, had received the nomination for first congressman for the new state of Washington. Small's opera house was crowded with delegates. The applause was tremendous. It was the first nomination of the first new state convention, and was not settled until three ballots had been taken. His competitor, R. O. Dunbar, of Klickitat, going down for the third or fourth time in an endeavor to attain a seat on the floor of the American house of representatives at the hands of a Washington convention. Dunbar made the bravest battle of his life, and lost. So close was the contest that his young and eloquent competitor had, when the ballots were counted, but four votes more than was necessary to nominate him. The speeches which followed, by Wilson, Dunbar and Weir, were brilliant, eloquent and forcible, and showed that either would reflect credit upon the new state in the halls of congress.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

After an attempt to adjourn had been voted down, the convention almost ran wild with excitement to get at the governorship nomination. It was quickly disposed of.

When the end of the first ballot was reached, the old ex-governor, E. P. Ferry, had six more votes than was necessary, and amidst the greatest enthusiasm he came to the footlights of the stage and made a brief and sensible speech on the importance of the approaching election. Then the convention adjourned until Thursday, to complete the work so auspiciously begun. There is no telling what might have happened with the governorship had an adjournment been effected after Wilson's nomination, as was attempted, because barter was in the wind, and the able young leader of the King county delegation had blood in his eye against Ferry. The convention knew what it wanted, however, and none of the delegates were allowed to sleep until they were aware who their standard bearer was to be.

THE PROXY FIGHT.

The report of the committee on credentials, which created the first lively spurt in the convention, was severely criticised outside as well as inside the convention as unfair, unrepublican and without precedent. It turned out of the convention about a dozen gentlemen who had come to Walla Walla, to represent friends who were unable to be present. The report was based upon an outrageously false statement relative to proxies heretofore in territorial conventions, and after a brief, heated discussion it was adopted. No persons were allowed to vote unless they were members of the delegation holding proxies for others. Had there been a county delegation present composed of proxies entirely outside of the duly elected delegates, that county would not have been allowed representation at all by the adoption of this report.

O. C. Jensen, one of the members of the committee, stated to your correspondent that the main object of the report was to get rid of the presence of an objectionable man from Pierce county. This action of the convention bore harder on the above named delegation than any other, because the Pierce county convention in Tacoma refused a week ago by a very decisive vote, to allow the chairman to cast the votes of absent delegates, and yet this convention gave the chairman of the delegation that power. To bring the report of the committee to a logical conclusion, it would only be necessary in the future for the counties to elect a chairman each, and let them assemble somewhere and make the necessary nominations. This would be economy, but not exactly republican.

The matter was happily adjusted for future conventions by a resolution, passed just before adjournment, fixing the status of delegates and their proxies.

Chairman John F. Gowey, of the state central committee, in referring to the report of the committee, said he had attended state conventions for twenty years in Ohio, was a member of the national convention of 1880, and never knew the right of a proxy to be questioned before.

THE FIGHT FOR KINNEAR.

When the thirty-five members of the King county delegation woke up Wednesday morning, after a short night's rest, they breakfasted and begun the button-holing process in earnest. Before nightfall they had made a decided impression for Kinnear, on the argument that it would not be good politics for the new state convention to nominate a man from that county whom the republicans had repudiated at the primaries and in the county convention.

It was reported late Wednesday afternoon that the Spokane delegation had made a truce with the King county men, by which the latter would support Wilson for congress if Spokane would go for Kinnear on the first ballot, for governor. To overcome this, the friends of Governor Ferry were showing republican tickets voted at the polls in King county in 1884, with Voorhees's name at their head for congress, and the name of John R. Kinnear, for the territorial legislature. George Kinnear, a brother to John R., they said was chairman of the King county republican committee at the time, and it is alleged arranged the ticket so that his brother profited at the polls by the deception. Ferry's friends evidently failed to make any impression on the Spokanites, as the thirty-five votes of King went to Wilson, and Spokane "delivered the goods" by voting twenty-six ballots for John R. Kinnear. There happened to be votes enough, however, for the old war horse without Spokane, although it looked for a while uncomfortably close.

The Brents men of the Walla Walla delegation claim that the votes they cast for Ferry settled the business. Pierce county went for Ferry, but lost its twenty-six ballots on the congressman, lieutenant governor and commissioner of public lands.

The admirable precision with which the chairman of the King county delegation handled his thirty-five men was notable. They never split.

The opposition of the Pierce county delegation to choose Laughton for lieutenant governor was also notable, as he is practically a Tacoma man. This delegation also failed to support Elwood Evans, one of its members, for judge, who is the oldest lawyer in practice in the territory, preferring T. L. Stiles, who came from Arizona to the territory about two years ago, and who made a good record as a member of the constitutional convention. Evans had secured the caucus nomination in the delegation the day before the nominations were made, but for some reason or other the decision was reversed in favor of Stiles.

THE SUPREME COURT NOMINEES.

"What does it mean?" was asked when Judge John P. Hoyt was put in nomination for one of the supreme justices. "It means that he has gotten out of the way for United States senator in in favor of Col. John Charles Haines," was the reply. The latter made good speeches both for Kinnear and Hoyt, but they seemed to lack heart.

Dunbar's nomination by acclamation for one of the supreme justices was the greatest ovation of the session, and while he had set his heart upon going to congress, he appeared to be just as well pleased at the result.

Hoyt, Dunbar and Stiles were members of the constitutional convention. So was Weir, nominated for secretary of state, Lindsley for treasurer and Reed for auditor. Of the thirteen nominations made for the state officers, nearly half of them were at Olympia and helped frame the constitution. It has been said that a member of that body would never be heard of after its adjournment. The action of the convention, however, showed that it was a recommendation for office.

T. J. Anders, of Walla Walla and Elmon Scott, of Garfield, are the oldest and youngest members of the court respectively. Anders is looked upon as an especially good lawyer. Scott, who is a young man, 35 years of age, was strongly backed by Columbia, Garfield and Asotin. He is a Vermonter by birth, and has resided in the territory eight years. He was admitted to the bar twelve years ago, and has been in constant practice ever since. He is said to be a lawyer of excellent ability and integrity and fully qualified for the position. Mr. Scott has resided in Pomeroy, Garfield county, ever since he came to the territory, and has enjoyed a lucrative practice. Cosgrove, who seconded his nomination, defeated him for membership of the constitutional convention.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Brief Sketches of the Gentlemen Who Compose the Ticket.

John L. Wilson, of Spokane Falls, the candidate for congress, is 39 years of age. He is a Hoosier, having been born at Crawfordsville, Ind. He was educated in the common schools of his native town, and graduated at Wabash college. He studied law, was admitted to practice, and soon became as deeply interested in politics as the law. He could not help becoming engrossed in public affairs, as his father before him had been a well-known member of congress and minister to Venezuela. Young John L. was a member of the Indiana legislature when but 20 years of age, carrying a democratic county for the first time in fifteen years. This was the legislature which elected Ben Harrison to the United States senate. In the spring of 1882 he came to Washington territory as receiver of the land office at Colfax. He remained in that position for four years, and then went to Spokane Falls where he has been engaged in the banking business ever since. He is a man of spotless integrity, and so straight were his land office accounts during the four years he was in office that he was highly complimented by the department. Mr. Wilson inherits the eloquence of his father. He is spare in figure, but is a bundle of stout nerves, and can stand any sort of fatigue. In the last campaign in this territory he went from one end of it to the other, making speeches, and never failed to draw crowded houses. He is a remarkably active and energetic man, will make a wonderful canvass, and will roll up a tremendous majority.

EX-GOVERNOR FERRY,

The nominee for governor, is so well-known to the people of the Pacific Northwest that it is unnecessary to make any lengthened notice of his services as chief executive of the territory for ten years. He is one of the prominent business men of Seattle, and a native of Illinois. He is a good campaigner and a vigorous talker.

CHARLES E. LAUGHTON,

The Okanogan man, who was nominated for lieutenant governor, held that office in Nevada some years ago. The geographical location of the candidate gave him the position. He lives at Conconully, is interested in the mines there, is passionately fond of music, playing the violin divinely, a portly person, and is over 40 years of age. A large number of the friends of Fred R. Reed, the young mayor of North Yakima, wanted him to accept this position, but he invariably replied that it would take all of his time in arranging matters for the removal of the state capital to North Yakima. Captain W. P. Gray, of Pasco, received a few votes for the position, and while he was not nominated, he says he will be fully satisfied if the people vote the capital to Pasco and elect the republican ticket.

ALLEN WEIR,

The candidate for secretary of state, is the only one on the ticket born on the coast. He is a native product of California, an editor and lawyer of Port Townsend, and 35 years of age. He is earnest, thoughtful and studious, not given to the wassail bowl, and will make an efficient officer. C. C. White, his opponent, is the present secretary of the territory. He was not a candidate for the office, but his friends insisted on putting him forward. Mr. White says his only ambition is to go back to Columbia county and make a good newspaper of his journal, the Columbia Chronicle, and contribute to the success of the republican ticket. He will keep his word, because he is a good editor.

THE NEXT STATE TREASURER,

A. A. Lindsley, of Union Ridge, Clarke county, is a native of Wisconsin, son of a Presbyterian minister, 41 years of age, and along with his brother runs a large creamery. He has been interested in stock farming for some years in the territory, and is a man of good education and fine business talents.

T. M. REED, OF OLYMPIA,

Will go back to his old desk, but as the auditor of the state instead of the territory. The latter position he has held for years. He is a practical surveyor and accountant, and is a lawyer. Mr. Reed is the oldest of all the nominees, being 64 years of age, a native of Kentucky, and an old-timer in the territory. He is one of the best-known members of the Masonic fraternity on the coast and will poll a very heavy vote.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The ovation that greeted W. C. Jones, of Spokane Falls, when his name was presented for attorney general, was certainly an indication of great popularity on his part, and when he made his way to the stage, amid loud cheering and enthusiasm this indication was strengthened. When he had finally gained a position on the platform in front of the large audience, and commenced in a clear, ringing voice to express his thanks for the nomination he had received, it was apparent that his popularity is not without good foundation. Although a young man, he displayed fine ability as a speaker, being blessed with a strong, pleasant voice, clean diction, and, best of all, with sound, clear cut thoughts. He has been prosecuting attorney in Spokane Falls for some time, and his nomination strengthens the ticket. Mr. Jones is 34 years of age.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

The nominee for superintendent of public instruction, R. B. Bryan, of Chehalis county, is an old printer, editor and school teacher, and fully qualified for the position. He was once superintendent of the public schools of Lynn county, Kan., and editor and publisher of the Mound City Clarion, of that state. After coming to the territory some years ago he worked at the case in Olympia, and finally settled in Montesano, where he subsequently became county superintendent of public schools. He was a Union soldier in the war of the rebellion, was wounded in battle, has a family, and will make a good supervisor of educational interests in the new state. Wickersham, of Tacoma, warmly seconded this nomination.

LAND COMMISSIONER.

Lewis county, the oldest in the new state, presented to the convention for commissioner of public lands the name of one of its young and energetic citizens, William T. Forrest, of the city of Chehalis, and he was nominated on the first ballot, against Sewell Truax, one of the pioneers of the territory. He is about 35 years of age, a good land lawyer, a former member of the lower house of representatives at Olympia, and is eminently fitted for the position.

DISTRICT NOMINATIONS.

Candidates for Superior Judge and Joint Senator.

Among the superior judges nominated by the delegates in attendance from the various districts was N. H. Bloomfield, of Vancouver, over ex-Chief Justice Dennison, by a vote of 19 to 9, for the counties of Clarke, Pacific, Wahkiakum, Cowlitz and Skamania.

B. F. Sturdevant, was nominated superior judge for the counties of Columbia, Garfield and Asotin, S. G. Cosgrove, who was named from Garfield county, retiring in his favor.

Walla Walla and Franklin, W. H. Upton.

Jefferson, Island, Kitsap, San Juan and Clallam, M. J. Backs. For joint senator in the same counties, Henry Landes was nominated.

For the counties of Spokane and Okanogan, R. B. Blake was named for superior judge, and H. E. Houghton for joint senator.

For the counties of Adams, Lincoln, Okanogan, Franklin and Douglas, Wallace Mount, of Sprague, was chosen as the nominee for superior judge, and F. H. Luce for joint senator.

For the counties of Yakima and Douglas, J. M. Snow, of Waterville, was named as joint senator.

For superior judge of the district, composed of Chehalis, Lewis, Mason and Thurston counties, Mason Irwin, of Chehalis, was nominated.

The following joint senators were also nominated: C. G. Austin, for Garfield and Asotin; D. A. Seabury, for Pacific and Wahkiakum.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The Contest for the Senate—Fact and Speculation.

The unusual spectacle of a democrat making a speech to a republican state convention, was presented at the first day's session. Dr. N. G. Blalock, mayor of the city, welcomed the delegates in a neat speech, in which he did not forget the members of the press. He sensibly made no allusion to politics. The doctor was a member of the constitutional convention. He enjoys the distinction of having once raised 60,000 bushels of wheat on 1000 acres of land, near Walla Walla.

The hospitality of the people of the city in throwing open their doors to the visitors was particularly noticeable. The journalists here, including Marion D. Egbert, P. B. Johnson and Frank J. Parker, threw open their doors to friends. The stores and residences were well decorated. The firemen gave exhibitions, and everybody aided in making the guests comfortable and happy in this beautiful city of tall poplars, wide streets and pretty homes. Among the latter the domiciles of Governor Moore, John B. Allen and P. B. Johnson were noted.

Tom Brents, the senatorial competitor of Allen, appeared to know everybody that arrived in town, and his right arm went up and down like a pump handle.

While the coming election does not cut any figure in the senatorial fight, the question was freely discussed on all sides. It is getting complicated. Allen and Brents both have staunch friends in the Walla Walla and other legislative contingents east of the Cascades. B. G. Hyde, of Spokane Falls, has the support of the Spokane county men, and it is said will develop some strength in other counties west of the Cascades. Rainer will dispute with Squire for the toga from King county, and General Sprague and Walter J. Thompson will be the candidates from Pierce county. All four have friends in the Puget sound, Gray's Harbor and Columbia river counties. When the legislature meets it will be confronted with at least seven avowed candidates for the United States senate on the republican side. Unless the republicans secure a decisive majority on joint ballot there is danger ahead. If the senatorial horses start with this decisive majority at their backs, who will come in under the string first? Will it be Spokane, as at the Kentucky derby, a Puget sound nag, or a dark horse from the interior of the state named Yakima, thus leaving the east and west to fight for second place? It is going to be an interesting contest, and it looks as if it was anybody's race now from the judges' stand.

An astute politician said to-day that Ferry would be elected governor, and would be the winner of one of the senatorial prizes. That would place Okanogan Laughton in the executive chair.

Among the many names that came before the convention, one may be mentioned that is sure to be heard again and most likely in some prominent connection. It is that of Colonel L. S. Howlett, of North Yakima. Under circumstances different from those that prevailed on this occasion, it would have greatly pleased the assembled representatives of the republican party of Washington to place Colonel Howlett in the leadership. The best nominating speech of the convention was made by Patrick Henry Winston in placing the name of John L. Wilson before the body. Winston is a lineal descendant of the great orator of revolutionary fame.

Wilson's speech in accepting the nomination was one of the strongest, most eloquent and forceful ever heard in any territorial convention.

The telegraphic facilities of the Western Union company were simply execrable, with but two wires and two operators on Wednesday, and twenty correspondents filing copy in the office. The two unfortunate operators were soon swamped, and but half of the copy filed was sent away. On Thursday night it was better, as two more operators were put to work.

None of the nominees are to the manor born. The nearest is R. O. Dunbar, who was carried across the plains of Eastern Washington when an infant in his mother's arms. He is 44 years of age, was born in Illinois, is a good lawyer, particularly strong in the stock counties, and is looked upon as a man of integrity, ability and industry.

Ex-Governor Ferry went around town this morning with his pockets bulging out with telegrams of congratulation from all parts of the country and territory. He says he believes the ticket is a very strong one throughout, and will be elected by a handsome majority, but he cautions all to keep an eye on the legislative tickets in the various counties.

All of the candidates who have been named for United States senator were present at the convention, except General John W. Sprague, of Tacoma.

About twenty members of the late constitutional convention were in attendance at this convention as delegates. There would probably have been more if they had had more time to get home and fix their fences between the time of adjournment and the assembling of their county conventions.

The Harrison legion of Seattle started home on this afternoon's train, with a determination to roll up the biggest majority for Ferry ever heard of in King county. C. M. B.

WRECKED BY AN EMBEZZLER.

A Prominent Boston Firm Betrayed by a Trusted Employe.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—It is stated on the authority of President Perkins, of the Douglas Ax Company, that the concern will go into insolvency soon. There are, it is said, irregularities in the accounts of Treasurer Dana. His whereabouts is unknown. The company is capitalized at $400,000.

Dana's absence was discovered yesterday while the directors were waiting for the opening of the meeting of the board. A hasty examination of the accounts was made, and they were found to be in a very bad state.

President Perkins said: "Mr. Dana has been in the employ of the company from boyhood, and we have not had occasion to suspect him. The company has been going along successfully for about fifty years, and its prosperity has been great."

When asked if he could give any idea of the present liabilities, or the condition of the company, Perkins replied: "No, we have not been able to approach anything like a definite view of the results, but we know that they must be bad, judging by Dana's accounts that we have examined thus far."

Mr. Morefield Storey, who has been placed in charge said that a petition in insolvency would be filed to-morrow.

Experts were put to work on the books to-day, and have already discovered that the deficit has apparently been going on systematically for a number of years.

Dana's salary varied from $6000 to $8000 per year. He has an elegant residence in Brookline, but a gentleman who is well acquainted with him says that he had no bad habits. There were no entangling alliances. He was seen in New York city Wednesday afternoon.

The gentleman quoted above says that the total liabilities of the company will exceed $500,000. It is hoped that it will not reach $1,000,000. Just before he went Dana raised $10,000 or more. It was learned this evening that the case had been placed in the hands of the police, and that to-morrow a criminal prosecution will be commenced against Dana on the charge of embezzlement. It is thought that there are sufficient grounds on which to secure his extradition, should he go to Canada, and it is generally supposed that he has gone there.

Dana is a deacon in the Harvard Congregational church, Brookline, and a teacher in the Sunday school. He has a wife and five children. His family deny all knowledge of his whereabouts. The factory at East Douglas will be shut down immediately, throwing between 200 and 300 employes out of work.

President Perkins says that Dana lost his money in unsuccessful speculations.

REFUSES TO ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE.

Senator Call Will Not Meet Colonel Shipley Before the People.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 6.—Senator Call has addressed a 5000 word letter to Colonel Shipley, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, declining the latter's proposition to meet in a joint discussion before the people of Florida, as contained in Shipley's recent acceptance of Senator Call's challenge to his alleged defamers, and Senator Call refers to the railroad lobby in the legislature, and charges that a combine was made to defeat his re-election to the senate in 1891. He also refers to the combination for the revival of obsolete land grants, which resulted in the dispossessing of thousands of people of homes, and it was to expose this plot, Call says, that he proposed to canvass the state, and not to make a personal defense of his own record. He wishes to direct public attention to the extent, enormity and iniquity of the evil practices in which he charges that Shipley and his associates are engaged.

A WILD FIGHT WITH A MOB.

A Kansas Courthouse Surrounded by Angry and Bloodthirsty Men.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 6.—This afternoon, as the sheriff of Butler county, at Eldorado, was taking Robert Snyder, who about a month ago murdered his wife and mother-in-law, to the courthouse for preliminary hearing, a mob formed and made a rush for the prisoner, with the intention of lynching him. A number of deputies were with the sheriff and a pitched battle ensued, which resulted disastrously for the lynchers. No one was killed, but Snyder was quite severely injured, being struck in the shoulder with a bullet, and four of the mob were injured, two of them fatally.

The sheriff ran his prisoner into the court house, and was surrounded at a late hour to-night by a mob threatening lynching. The officers preserve a resolute front.

Return of Lawrence Barrett.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Lawrence Barrett arrived yesterday from Europe, after a three months' trip abroad. "I went abroad entirely on account of my health," said Mr. Barrett, "and I have returned feeling better than I have for three years. I made no attempt to see anyone, and kept myself as quiet as possible. I did not even go to London, and saw practically nothing of my fellow-professionals abroad. The trip was a delightful one."

"How did you leave Miss Anderson?"

"I did not see her, but my daughter and son-in-law said Miss Anderson was in the very best of spirits, and the stories which have been in print about her condition are greatly exaggerated."

Won by Arizona.

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 6.—The contest for the division commander's department skirmish medal, U. S. A., was won to-day by the Arizona team. Score—Arizona 940, California 778, Columbia 501.

THE WOMEN WILL VOTE

They Will Establish Polling Places of Their Own,

AND KEEP A COMPLETE RECORD

Then, if Necessary, They Will Carry Another Contest Before the Supreme Court—A Meeting at Walla Walla.

WALLA WALLA, W. T., Sept. 6.—An equal suffrage league meeting to-day passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, An attempt is now being made by the men of Washington to debar the women voters from the exercise of the elective franchise, of which they were for years in undisputed possession; and

WHEREAS, This attempt is based upon the adverse decision of an appellate territorial court, in defiance of the repeated acts of the legislature which enfranchised women, and of the approval of the governor, together with the repeatedly expressed approval of the different political parties of the territory with and for which women have voted; and

WHEREAS, We have appealed from that adverse decision, and it is now before the supreme court of the United States, where there is no reasonable doubt that it will be reversed; therefore

Resolved, That in order to test the validity of our right to vote before the iron gates of a state constitution shall be closed upon our liberties, we will, as far as possible, offer our ballots at the coming election.

Resolved, That we will not antagonize the opposing elements, such as candidates for office, by taking sides in the conflict with or for any candidate, but will offer our ballots for the constitution and for separate articles only.

Resolved, That if the judges of election refuse to receive our ballots, we will be prepared to receive and count our votes for ourselves, for the purpose of making them the basis of a contest before the returning boards and if necessary before the supreme law of the land.

Resolved, That we cordially and earnestly invite men and women of whatever name or organization to co-operate with us in bringing out the full vote of the women in this important crisis.

LUCIA ISAACS, President.
M. A. DAVENPORT, Treasurer.
H. Y. ISAACS, Cor. Sec'y,
Walla Walla Equal Suffrage League.

This evening at the opera house Mrs. A. S. Duniway addressed a large audience on the subject of the above resolutions. The lady's speech was received with much enthusiasm. The audience was composed of representative people of the city, and many delegates to the state convention still here. The speaker advised women to follow the advice of the resolutions, organize for work, make ready polling places, and vote for the woman suffrage amendment to the constitution; to go to the polls, offer their votes, and if refused go to their own polls, there record the vote regularly, and then appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

THE NEAGLE TRIAL.

Testimony Given by the Deputy Marshal in His Own Defense.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Deputy Marshal David Neagle was examined in the Federal court to-day, and related the details of the tragedy in the Lathrop dining-room last month. He said that when Judge Terry approached Justice Field, he had no idea he was going to make an attack, but before he could interfere Terry slapped the justice on the face with his right hand, and repeated the blow with his left, striking the justice the second time on the back of the head.

Neagle continued: "I was on my feet in an instant, and, throwing out my right hand to keep Terry off, I shouted, 'Stop that, I am a United States officer.' Terry then directed his attention to me. He had his right arm in position, as if to deliver another blow, and as he turned his glance upon me he looked like a wild beast. His clenched fist immediately sought his bosom. Believing that my life was in danger, I immediately drew my pistol with my left hand, and catching it with my right, fired two shots in quick succession, and Terry fell to the floor. I believe Terry would have cut me to pieces, and perhaps Justice Field, if I had not acted promptly. He looked like a maddened giant. I knew that he had always carried a knife, and I believed that he had one on him then. I knew him to be a giant in strength, and proposed to take no chances with him. For that reason I had my pistol in both hands so that he could not take it away from me. After the shooting was over, and I had got Justice Field on the train again, I told the conductor to look out for Mrs. Terry, as I did not like to injure the woman, but would surely protect Justice Field."

Neagle's examination concluded the testimony, and the case was continued until next Wednesday, when the question of the jurisdiction of the federal court will be argued.

SARAH ALTHEA AND THE TERRY ESTATE.

FRESNO, Sept. 6.—The petition of Mrs. Sarah Althea Terry for letters testamentary upon the estate of D. S. Terry, deceased, came up for a hearing to-day before Judge Harris.

Clinton B. Terry, son of the deceased, appeared as a contestant. In a petition filed subsequent to that of Mrs. Terry, he alleged that Mrs. Terry was incompetent and asked to be appointed administrator.

Mrs. Terry's attorney asked that the contestant's claim be disallowed and his client appointed administratrix. The motion was overruled.

The names of several parties were proposed for administrator, but no agreement was arrived at and the case went over till to-morrow.

ADVICES FROM HONOLULU.

Two Islands Annexed by Great Britain—Nine Men Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Advices from Honolulu by the steamer Australia to-day state that the British man-of-war Espiegle returned there August 28, having annexed Humphrey's island and Rierson island to the British dominions.

While at Humphrey's island the Espiegle took on board twenty men of the British ship Garston, from Sydney to San Francisco, which was wrecked near Starbuck island July 17. A boat containing Captain Pye and eight of the crew was lost.

THE STORY OF THE SHIPWRECK.

A carpenter of the Garston told the following story of the wreck: "We left Sydney with a cargo of 2800 tons coal on the 20th of June last, bound for San Francisco. Everything went all right until the evening of the 17th of July, when suddenly, about 9:30 o'clock, we ran plump upon the coral reefs of Starbuck island. In a minute all was confusion. We soon found that we had gone ashore. The captain at once lowered all three of the boats, and we left the ship. We hovered about her all night, but the next morning the sea was breaking so high over her that we found it utterly impossible to board her, so we abandoned her, and turned to find a landing place on the island. As night was coming on, we were ordered to pull for the ship again, so as to keep in sight of her, but the current was too strong to allow us to make any headway, so we turned back and gave it up. During the night we lost all trace of the gig, containing the captain, second and third mates and five seamen, and no doubt they perished, as we never saw them again. We soon made two sails and headed in what we supposed to be the direction of Cooke's Group, which the mate thought must be about 1000 miles away. From then until the 28th of July we lived on an ounce of water a day apiece, and three pounds and a half of meat, divided between twenty-one men and two dogs. August 28th we sighted the island of Tofu, of the Humphreys group. On this island we effected a landing in an almost destitute condition." On the 10th of August the British steamship Espiegle took us to Honolulu, where we embarked for San Francisco.

A SENSATION IN COURT.

An Alleged Attempt to Sell a Decision in a Murder Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—A sensation was created in the police court this morning by Prosecuting Attorney Long, who openly charged that Philip Crimmins and Fire Commissioner Martin Kelly, two well-known republican politicians, had offered to sell Judge Joachimsen's decision in the Kenny murder case for $1000.

The father and another relative of young Kenny, who stabbed and killed James Mase several weeks ago, were placed on the stand to corroborate Long's charge. They testified that ex-Senator J. N. E. Wilson, who was retained to defend young Kenny, had told them this morning that Crimmins and Kelly had called on him last evening and offered, for $1000, to obtain a decision favorable to the prisoner, and also promised, if the grand jury should take the matter up afterwards, that they would reach District Attorney Page.

Judge Joachimsen instructed Prosecuting Attorney Long to lay the matter before the grand jury at once, and push the investigation.

Crimmins and Kelly both deny the charges of corruption brought against them by Prosecuting Attorney Long.

POWDER MILL BLOWN UP.

The Foreman Thought To Have Been Fatally Injured.

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 6.—This morning a single wheel mill in the California powder works exploded. It was caused by loose powder igniting by sparks and communicating with 600 pounds of powder which stood on a car near the entrance. The building was destroyed. James Green, the foreman, was blown sixty feet, and badly burned. He is not expected to live.

Charles Seabury was blown twenty feet and slightly injured.

MORALES, THE OUTLAW, CAPTURED.

The Abducted Girl Will Be Restored to Her Parents.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—A Chronicle special from Los Angeles says: Sylvestro Morales, the noted outlaw, was captured this afternoon at the head of Alimatos bay, five miles from the town of Long Beach. Keno Wilson, constable of Oceanside, John McGowan and Manuel Casilla, have for several days been watching for Morales near Old Alimatos, where the outlaw's sister lives, and where it was thought he was being sheltered. On several occasions they had seen a woman carrying a basket, supposed to contain food.

About 4 o'clock this afternoon they saw a man come out of the brush near the head of the bay and approaching the water, stoop down to wash his hands. Immediately the men recognized him as Morales the outlaw, and leveled their Winchesters at him and ordered him to throw up his hands. Morales raised one hand slowly when Wilson shouted for him to hold up both hands, and both of the outlaw's hands went up. The men then advanced upon him, and while McGowan and Casilla kept him covered, Wilson placed handcuffs on him. Morales was not armed.

Constable Wilson asked about Nymphia Brown, the girl abducted by the bandit from San Diego. The outlaw pointed to the brush near by, and, on going there the girl was found. She refused to state whether or not she had willingly accompanied him from home.

Morales had very little to say, but told of putting three bullets into the body of his partner, Bunch, during a quarrel four months ago, at Oceanside. He was taken, in company with the abducted girl, to San Luis Rey, where he will have to answer the charge of killing Henry Charles, and where the girl will be restored to her parents.

MISSIONS IN CHINA.

Bishop Foster Considers Lieutenant Wood's Statement Preposterous.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Bishop R. S. Foster, of the Methodist Episcopal church, has arrived here from Boston. He is very largely interested in missionary work in foreign lands.

To-day his attention was called to the late statements of Lieutenant Wood, of the United States navy, to the effect that mission work in China had been absolutely without any result; that only a few servants of the missionaries, who are paid $4 a month, had ever professed Christianity, and that they only held to it so long as their services were paid for.

"The story of Lieutenant Wood is the most ridiculous one that could be conceived of," said the bishop. "It is false in almost every particular."

He called attention to the prepared article announcing that there were no less than 30,000 Christians in China, and said that if they were paid $4 per month each they would require over one million and a half of dollars.

"This," he added, "is more than double the amount spent by all the Protestant missionary societies in China."

He said that one wealthy Chinese merchant at Foo Chow had lately given $10,000 in aid of the Anglo-Chinese college, and that Christianity was making headway with the upper classes, even Li Hung Chang, the prime minister, having been influenced by it.

THE DILLON PARTY.

Their Present Trip to the West Is Purely for Pleasure.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—A special arrived over the California & Oregon road to-day with Dr. P. B. Wychoff, John Sloan, H. VanBergen and others of the Dillon party, who have for a couple of weeks past been in the Northwest. Mr. Dillon himself did not arrive. He took the Oregon Short Line from Portland, and will meet the party in Omaha.

"Our trip is purely one for pleasure," said Dr. Wychoff.

"What about the extension of the Utah Central branch of the Union Pacific to Los Angeles, about which so much has been said?"

"That is all chimerical. There is nothing in it. As I said, we are not here on railroad business. No, there is nothing that can be said about the extension of the Union Pacific from Ogden either, nor about the building of the Oregon Short Line further north; but all these roads will come soon enough. Just now we can only say that we have been looking over the roads and looking at their condition. We go from here to Monterey, where we will spend several days and then return leisurely to New York."

FIRE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Several Firemen Severely Injured and Two Narrow Escapes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—A fire broke out among the packing houses and warehouses in the vicinity of Sacramento and Drum streets this afternoon and destroyed considerable property. Nearly all buildings burned were flimsy structures and belonged to Jessup and Tate. The total loss is estimated at $50,000.

During the fire Philip Brady, a fireman, had his leg broken by a fall from a ladder. Felix Desmond had his left hand badly cut, and John McCanley was severely burned about the head and arms, and Charles Lyons, the driver of a hose cart, was badly injured by the overturning of his cart.

Mamie Kelly, the young girl who gave the alarm, had her hair singed and her clothes burned while escaping from the burning building. An unknown man was rescued from the third story of the Union Pacific salt works by a fireman. The ladder placed against the building fell considerably short of the third floor, so he stood at its top with a smaller ladder on his shoulder, over which the imprisoned workman made his escape.

A STAGE ROBBER SENTENCED.

Last Friday He Was on the Highways, and Now He Is in Prison.

SUSANVILLE, Cal., Sept. 6.—Henry Hill, who robbed a stage last Friday in this county, pleaded guilty yesterday, waived time, and was sentenced to seventeen years in Folsom.

THE LONE HIGHWAYMAN AGAIN.

UKIAH, Cal., Sept. 6.—The northbound stage from Ukiah to Eureka was stopped by a lone highwayman yesterday, about six miles out of town. He secured the Wells, Fargo & Co.'s box, but there was no money in it.

No clue has been found as to identity of the lone highwayman.

Later.—A man believed to be the stage robber has been brought here from Cloverdale, where he was arrested this afternoon. He had $15 in his possession, but is supposed to have obtained about $1000 from the stage.

The prisoner says he has been picking hops in this vicinity, but cannot give the name of his employer.

An Awful Disaster Reported From Antwerp.

ONE THOUSAND PEOPLE INJURED

The Disaster Caused by an Explosion of Dynamite in a Cartridge Factory—Awful Scenes of Ruin.

ANTWERP, Sept. 6.—Dynamite exploded to-day in a cartridge factory in the vicinity of the bourse, killing many persons and doing much damage to property. Portions of the bourse were struck by burning fragments and set on fire, causing a panic in the building, which was crowded.

The explosion occurred in a workshop where old cartridges were being taken to pieces. Men and women were actively at work breaking these up and 1,000,000 had been partly broken.

The fire is still raging, and now covers two acres. The flames shoot up to an immense height. Amid the roar of flames there is a continuous succession of loud reports supposed to be from the ignition and explosion of pockets of cartridges.

Beyond the Russian tanks and Nobles' sheds there are numerous houses burning.

The shipping at the African and American docks is in danger.

The number of deaths will reach 200. About 500 persons were injured.

The loss will be many million francs.

It will be impossible to extinguish the flames in less than twenty-four hours.

Several vessels have been burned. Owing to the intense heat, the firemen are unable to approach the flames nearer than 100 yards.

THREE HUNDRED KILLED.

MIDNIGHT.—The latest estimate is that there are 300 killed and 1000 wounded.

Explosions continue at the American dock.

All of the ships have been saved, owing to the favorable direction of the wind.

The stained glass windows of the cathedral are smashed and it is feared that the steeple will collapse. The whole vicinity is strewn with debris.

The soldiers of the garrison and a large number of citizens are aiding the firemen. Many are dropping from exhaustion. The scenes at the hospital are heart-rending.

King Leopold has sent a telegram, expressing sympathy and asking for particulars.

The factory was condemned sometime ago, but the authorities allowed work to continue in it. Much indignation is expressed at this action.

A FAMOUS EDIFICE.

The Cathedral of Antwerp is one of the most famous Gothic edifices in Europe. The steeple, which is reported to have been seriously damaged by the force of the explosion is 465 feet in height, and of the most beautiful and delicate workmanship. It contains a mammoth set of chimes. The interior of the cathedral corresponds with the grandeur of the exterior. Its chief attraction is the masterpiece of Rubens, "The Descent from the Cross," the picture which was given by the great painter as payment for the ground on which to build his house at Antwerp. In the north transept of the cathedral is Rubens's next best work, "The Elevation of the Cross," also his "Resurrection of the Savior" and "The Assumption of the Virgin."

BOULANGER TO THE FRONT.

The Government Shows Signs of Weakness—The Ferryist Furious.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—General Boulanger has written to Prime Minister Tirard, claiming the right to be tried by court-martial and pledging himself to appear before such a tribunal. The refusal of a trial by court-martial, the general says, will be equivalent to the admission on the part of the government that it fears the impartiality of a military court. In the event of a refusal, the general says he will submit himself to the judgment of the people at the polls.

THE LETTER IGNORED.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—The Temps says: The government will not reply to General Boulanger's demand for a trial by court-martial.

THE BOULANGISTS JUBILANT.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—The government has consented to all the prefects receiving the candidacy of Boulanger and Rochefort in Montmartre and Belleville. The Boulangists are jubilant over the government's change of front, considering it a sign of vacillation. The Ferryists, on the other hand, are furious, and the endeavor to restore harmony threatens to jeopardize the government's success in the elections.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure bilious and nervous ills.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

In this as in every other locality where it is known, there are hundreds of persons who are taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. To those we want to say one word. In nine cases out of every ten it is effecting specific cures. But word comes to us occasionally of people who report that it operates too freely upon the bowels. We want to call the attention of those to the fact that they are not following the printed instructions and are taking too much of it. If it acts too freely reduce the dose, never taking any more at any time than causes easy and perfect action. Keep this injunction in mind, and take it regularly for a while and do not indulge in too much greasy food, and we will have your testimonial within a fortnight. If taken under these conditions it is an absolute cure for indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headaches, constipation, face eruptions and liver and kidney disorders. It may be asked how it can possibly cure so many ailments. But the reason is clear. All those troubles are the legitimate result of improper liver and kidney action or impaired digestive organs. Its effects upon those functions are as astonishing to the medical fraternity as to the thousands who are daily taking it.

An Ex-Convict Killed by a Faro Dealer.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS

Suicide of a Young Lady at Niagara Falls—The Hamilton Conspiracy—The International Congress—The Telephone Suit

DENVER, Sept. 6.—At an early hour this morning Timothy Stocking, a faro dealer in the Arcade shot and instantly killed Billy Murphy, a [illegible] of Joliet, Ills

The events leading up to the murder are as follows: Miss [illegible], a beautiful girl, came to Chicago from a small town in Wisconsin to visit friends. Shortly after her arrival she met Billy Murphy a plumber who fell madly in love with the lady. She did not return his affections, and soon after married Timothy Stocking.

A couple of months after the wedding Murphy was caught burglarizing a residence, and was sentenced to five years imprisonment, Stocking being the principal witness for the prosecution. Murphy swore that he would kill both Stocking and wife as soon as he could regain his liberty, and after his release he followed the couple over the country finally locating them in Denver. He came here a couple of months ago, and meeting Mrs. Stocking upon the street nearly frightened her to death by threats of violence against herself and husband. Stocking however, appeared to pay but little attention to the threats and laughed at them whenever his wife spoke about the matter.

The police were notified of the state of affairs, and had repeatedly driven Murphy from Stocking's premises, where he had been found skulking around at all hours of the night.

This morning Stocking was awakened by some one knocking at the front door and on going to the entrance he asked who was there and on being informed that it was Billy Murphy Stocking looked between the blinds and saw the man with a huge knife in his hand. Stocking picked up a shotgun and fired the contents of the barrel into Murphy's face and neck, literally tearing them to pieces. Murphy staggered out of the gate and fell upon the walk a corpse.

Stocking was arrested and locked up at the Central station.

The father of the deceased is living in Chicago and a cousin and brother are in the same city, all of whom are quite wealthy and influential citizens.

MURPHY'S RECORD IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—William Murphy who was killed this morning at Denver by Timothy Stocking had rather an unsavory record in Chicago. His father Edward Murphy lives at the corner of Harrison street and Blue Island avenue, and is 74 years old.

About four months ago Thomas Murphy a rich uncle died and left $30 000 or $40 000 apiece to William and his three children Frank, John and James. The latter is a plumber at No. 21 Blue Island avenue. John is a conductor on a railroad and Frank is a butcher in Colorado about 100 miles from Denver. The money was not to be paid to the boys until they were all of age.

William who was about 39 years old had been disowned by his family on account of his many misdeeds. He had been in the penitentiary three times. The last time he had been sent up for knocking down and robbing his brother-in-law. His relatives in this city had heard nothing from him for about three years. They have decided to take no steps in the matter of the killing having long ago decided to have nothing more to do with William.

THE NIAGARA FALLS SUICIDE

The Victim of Self-Destruction Thought To Be a Young Lady of Binghamton

BINGHAMTON, N Y, Sept. 6.—The young woman who committed suicide at Niagara Falls yesterday morning is believed to be Anna Mead of this city. Miss Mead left home Wednesday morning and that is the last that has been seen of her. The description of the suicide tallies with that of the missing girl. Yesterday morning her parents received a letter postmarked Niagara Falls. There was no date on it, and no name signed but the handwriting is recognized as that of the missing girl.

The letter read as follows: "I bought a ticket for this place this morning and if nothing happens to prevent me I intend to go over the falls. The reason I came here is that there is a possibility of my body's not being found, and I hope it never will. No one is to blame but myself."

Miss Mead was 20 years old, and well connected. No reason can be assigned for the act. She was generally considered a merry, light hearted girl, but had occasional spells of melancholy. Her home was pleasant and was surrounded with every comfort. She moved in good society, and was much admired. A week ago she visited Niagara, and seemed to be strangely fascinated with the falls.

THE CONSPIRATORS

Hamilton Takes the Witness Stand Against Mrs Swinton and Joshua Mann

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Swinton and her son Joshua Mann were taken to the Tombs police court this afternoon. Robert Ray Hamilton affirmed to the complaints against the defendants. The defendants pleaded not guilty and demanded an examination.

Hamilton took the witness stand. He looked pale and haggard. He gave his testimony in an almost inaudible voice. The charge he made was a surprise. It was larceny in the second degree. He admitted knowing Mrs Hamilton since June 1885 and stated that they had lived together as man and wife a great part of that time.

Hamilton said that he had lived with Eva Mann for three or four years previous to their marriage. He never suspected that the child which now bears his name was not his own but he did suspect Mrs. Swinton and Joshua Mann were conspiring in June to obtain some of his money. The testimony of Hamilton in detail showed the sums of money that he had given Mrs. Swinton. Inspector Byrnes told the story already printed about the baby.

THE BEHRING SEA DIFFICULTY

England Refuses to Intercede in Behalf of the Canadian Sealers

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—The sudden return of Sir John Macdonald is thought to be in compliance with certain dispatches received from England. The text of these dispatches is said to be a refusal on the part of the imperial authorities to allow the Pacific squadron to interfere in the Behring sea difficulty. Canada, they say must settle the difficulty herself. This is further corroborated by the fact that Canadian affairs were completely ignored in the recent speech of the queen at the prorogation of parliament.

At a cabinet meeting yesterday all of the documents received thus far from Victoria respecting the recent seizures by the United States revenue cutter Rush were under consideration. The members of the government, it is understood are of one opinion—that the United States will relinquish its claim to the exclusive sovereignty of Behring sea. The present delay can only be accounted for by the fact that England has with strange reluctance interfered only in the reiteration of her demands for the appointment of a convention to settle the question.

The claims for compensation will aggregate at least $100 000. They will be transmitted to the imperial government without delay for a decision, or action tending to the settlement of the question.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

All of the States Accept the Invitation Except San Domingo

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The official statement of the action of the American nations on the invitation to participate in congress next March was issued by the state department to-day. It shows that every one has accepted the invitation excepting San Domingo. The reason given by the government of that country for declining to participate was that the treaty negotiated by the representatives of the latter country several years ago failed of ratification by the congress of the United States.

THE BELL TELEPHONE SUIT.

A Unification of the Interests Opposed to That Company

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The suit of the United States government against the Bell Telephone Company has assumed a more definite aspect. A paper filed in the patent office assigns to Senator Frank Jones John R Bartlett and Henry I. Andrews as absolute trustees the control of all the rights held by the People's Telephone Company. This means a unification of all the interests which formerly fought the Bell Telephone Company separately. The Bell patent is to be fought on the grounds of the priority of the patent of Daniel Drowbaugh.

ARMY DESERTIONS.

The Subject To Be Treated at Length in Secretary Proctor's Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The subject of desertions from the army will be treated at length in the forthcoming report of the secretary of war. It is one that has had Secretary Proctor's earnest consideration from the beginning, as well as that of the adjutant general.

Various changes in camp and barrack life with a view to increasing the soldier's comfort and interest in his command have been instituted, notably the consolidated mess and canteen system. These have worked well wherever tried, and the result has been that the percentage of desertions has been decreased since 1883.

Of the desertions 55 per cent occur among men serving their first and second year of enlistment.

In May last Major Thomas Schwan assistant adjutant general under instructions from Secretary Proctor, made a tour of inspection of the recruiting depots at Davis island, N Y, Columbus, O, and Jefferson barracks, Mo. The major is himself a soldier who came from the ranks, and his report to the adjutant general contains numerous suggestions including the draft of a bill prepared by him last winter after a close study of the situation calculated in his opinion to lessen desertions.

Schwan says: "Whatever causes of discontent may at one time have existed, such as a lack of provisions, or clothes for the physical comfort and needs of the enlisted soldiers or unreasonable demands upon and unfair or harsh treatment of them have been removed so far as it is in the power of military authorities to do so, and cases are rare where the failure of the government to make good its obligations can be truthfully alleged as affording even a semblance of a justification for desertion."

Among other things Major Schwan's bill provides safeguards against the readmission to the service of deserters or professional deserters. Another provision of the bill is that one-third of a soldier's pay for the first year shall be retained until his discharge and forfeited if he does not serve out his term. It also provides for the adoption of the British custom of permitting enlisted soldiers to purchase their discharge.

Acting Adjutant General McKeever and other officers of the staff have at Secretary Proctor's request submitted memoranda on the subject of desertion.

Acting Adjutant General McKeever says that in his opinion the chief causes of desertions are the disappointment at the realities of military life, the employment of soldiers on laborious work without extra pay, the inequality of punishment as inflicted by courts-martial, bad company, maladministration, tyrannical conduct sometimes toward enlisted men by officers and more especially the first sergeants, and too often unnecessary restraints imposed on the soldier. He also believes that the largest number of the deserters are American born.

The following remedial measures are suggested: The limiting of the term of service in the first enlistment to three years, the re-enlistment to five years, the granting of discharges according to the length of service, the discharge of men found to be incorrigibly bad and without character, thus barring their re-entry into the service, the securing of a graded code of punishments for the guidance of the courtmartial, the securing of a better class of non-commissioned officers and especially first sergeants by increasing their pay, and making the punishment of deserters more certain than at present by increasing the reward.

THE NEW MEXICO CONVENTION

Committee Reports Presented—Considerable Business Done

SANTA FE, N M, Sept. 6.—The state constitutional convention got fairly down to business to-day and accomplished a great deal of work.

The committee on elections and franchise made a lengthy report. It provides that a six months residence in the state shall be necessary before a man can vote. No religious test shall be required. No one convicted of crookedness in connection with an election shall be qualified to hold office. The secrets of the ballot shall be inviolate save in the case of contested elections. General elections shall be held every two years. The report was referred to the committee on corporations.

The committee on congressional requirements and taxation made a report. It sets forth among other things that the state shall acknowledge all of the territory's debts except those incurred during the late war and known as the militia claims. It provides for a perfect toleration of religious sentiments, that there shall be no preference by law for any religious institution, that the state may tax lands held by any individual who has severed his tribal relation, that the state shall establish a system of public schools open to all the children of New Mexico alike and free from sectarian control.

A minority report was submitted which approved the majority report except that clause relating to non-sectarian schools.

The reports were received and sent to the calendar to come up at some future time.

The clause with reference to the exclusion of the "militia claims" created a great deal of comment. There are about $400 000 worth of claims outstanding and many of the members of the convention are large holders.

TO MORROW'S ASCENSION

Professor Redmond Says His Parachute Jump Will Be No Failure

Professor P H Redmond in conversation with an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday said:

"Yes I know several alleged aeronauts have visited Portland and advertised to give a parachute jump and bilked all who paid to see them. I am not of that order. I will make a parachute jump Sunday or break my neck in the attempt. Even should I make a failure of it no one could complain, as I charge them nothing to see it. Barring unfavorable weather I will make an ascension from the East Side landing of the Jefferson street ferry Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock and after ascending to a great height make a parachute jump to the ground or river."

A correspondent writing from Chehalis sends the following:

The Chehalis valley herd of [illegible] Polled cattle will start in a few days for exhibition at Oregon State fair, returning in time for the Lewis county fair at this point.

"There have been more fires this season in the brush and slashings than during the previous three years. Many pieces have been burned so clean as to be nearly ready for the plow as soon as the ground is wet enough."

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Y M C A

The subjoined clipping is taken from the educational department of the Y M C A monthly bulletin for September:

We are making plans for the educational work for the year. Classes will be formed in free-hand drawing, shorthand, music, English, penmanship, book keeping, arithmetic and one or two other branches, if there is sufficient call to warrant the undertaking. While members will have free access to all classes in this department, it is probable a deposit will be required of each one admitted to the classes, as an evidence of good faith. The deposit will be returned if the student makes satisfactory record of attendance. Heretofore the classes have started out well but students have dropped out toward the close of the term, and the results have not been at all satisfactory. We believe a deposit fee contingent on attendance, will remedy this evil.

All members desiring to take up any study this winter will confer a favor by making their wants known to the general secretary so that only those branches desired by the members shall be [illegible] for.

PROBS PREDICTIONS

A Set of Weather Indication Signals To Be Put Up on the Kamm Block

United States Signal Observer B S Pague will in the near future put up weather signal flags on the Kamm building over his office. There will be four flags in all whose meaning will be:

A white square flag will indicate fair weather during the next twenty four hours, a square blue flag will indicate rain, a black triangular flag will indicate whether the temperature will be cool or warm. If it is displayed above the rain or fair weather flag the supposition will be that the temperature will be warm. If it is displayed below, cold weather may be looked for. If this signal does not appear at all stationary weather may be looked for.

The fourth flag is one that will indicate frost. It is a square white flag with a black square in the center. Usually this flag is used for denoting when a cold wave may be expected, but as Oregon has no cold waves it will be used for a warning against frost.

Mr Pague is having 10 000 cards printed which will be distributed in this state to post people upon the intelligence to be derived from looking at the flags. These reports or predictions will be telegraphed every day from San Francisco to this office and then from here they will be dispatched to all the subordinate stations in the state.

DEMAND AND SUPPLY OF POULTRY

An Extensive Dealer Gives His Opinion in Regard to the Market

Speaking of the low price now ruling for poultry an extensive dealer yesterday said:

"There are no more chickens in the country than can be sold at a fair price. The number of coops of poultry used here is very large and a great deal is shipped to the Sound, and the demand is constantly increasing. But just at present there is considerable game coming in, grouse, pheasants and ducks and this somewhat lessens the demand for poultry, and then poultry seems to have come in with a rush till a great quantity had accumulated. One man on the Sound telegraphed to a dealer here that 15 coops had accumulated on his hands and that the authorities had got after him and he had to send the chickens out on a farm. He wanted no more till he was rid of these.

"There is no danger of more poultry being raised in this state than can be consumed but the supply is irregular and prices go up and down. Now that the price is down, every one will hold back his chickens and in a short time there will be a scarcity and the price will go up again."

235 FIFTH ST.!!

Result of an Investigation by an "Oregonian" Reporter.

For the past two years the daily press of this city have been recording the many strange and wonderful cures performed by Dr Darrin at 235 Fifth street. From curiosity to learn something of the doctors and their method of treatment we concluded to visit their parlors. We found their rooms filled with patients suffering from almost every conceivable form of disease and much to our satisfaction, upon interrogating a number of those present their answer was unanimous that the doctors were rapidly dissipating their ailments. A number of persons who had not yet seen the doctors were anxiously awaiting their turn. An old man just arrived in the city that morning from east of the mountains was speaking of the hard time he had to find the office. "At last," said the old man, "I enquired of a small boy on the street where 235 Fifth street was. The kid spoke up and brightly answered: 'Oh! you want to see the Drs Darrin, do you? I know where it is. The other day they cured my ma who had been lame two years with rheumatism.'" As the old man had finished his story, the doctor came into the room with a young man whom he introduced as William J Hasenberg residing at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Washington streets, recently from California and who had just been successfully operated on for strabismus. His eyes had been badly crossed since a child and in one short painless operation the eye was perfectly straightened. The reporter gathered several names of parties cured who had no hesitation in giving their reference.

Mrs J R Cunningham of Wapinita Or was cured some days ago of almost total deafness in a few treatments which was considered by himself and friends almost a miracle.

Judge Kalahan of Kalama W T had four large tumors removed from his ear where they had been growing for twenty five years, and was very high in praise of the doctor.

Among the most enthusiastic was Dr McDowell of this city who was relieved of muscular prostration of the back and lower limbs and also of a disease of the eye. He had exhausted his own knowledge and practice in his case and was finally persuaded to try the electric treatment.

There were scores of others too numerous to mention. Drs Darrin are not charlatans or deceivers. They practice upon well known scientific principles and the multitude of cures they have performed and are constantly effecting is a full and ample refutation of any and all charge of quackery which may be made against them who are envious of their successful practice.

Drs. Darrin's Place of Business.

WASHINGTON REPUBLICANS.

The action of the republican convention of Washington is an assurance of harmony, a presage of an active campaign and a token of victory. It is beyond question that a large majority of the voters of the new state are republicans. They can lose the election only through excess of confidence and failure to appear at the polls.

The state ticket, as a whole, is very satisfactory. Governor Ferry, who leads it, is a man of the highest personal worth and of unusual popularity. The contest within the party at certain places, and notably at Seattle, has been a contest for the seats in the senate rather than for the office of governor. Hence Governor Ferry, though his nomination was brought about through the unusual method of taking a man for a candidate who had not the support of the delegates from his own county, is not an object of attack or distrust in any quarter and will command the whole support of his party. By the nomination for the supreme bench of Judge Hoyt, of Seattle, to whom the legislative ticket of King county was pledged, the senatorial contest, which has been a source of strife at that place, is virtually put out of the way, and the two divisions of the party, led respectively by Haines and Kinnear and Ferry and Squire, will work unitedly for common success.

The platform is plain, practical and sound. It leaves no important question untouched. It dodges no issue, but boldly faces the political situation. It is the declaration of men who bank upon the righteousness of their political creed, and who intend to court victory by standing fairly and firmly upon the accepted principles of their party.

The republican party of Washington claims the favor of the people of the new state on the ground that its policy is the policy for promotion of the public welfare. Protection to native industry is the key note for development of the mighty resources of the new state, and the platform intelligently recognizes the fact that changing industrial and commercial conditions render the tariff subject to constant revision that ought to be made fearlessly and with the sole view of fostering the industries and promoting the prosperity of our people.

Washington ought to have been a state long ago. But she has been kept out of statehood because the democratic party feared her votes in congress and in the electoral college. Now at last on the threshold of statehood, Washington will not voice an approval of the party that for many years dealt with her so unjustly. It is a matter of the highest importance to the new state that she shall start right, and this we believe she will do by electing the republican state ticket by from 5000 to 8000 majority, and by putting a strong republican majority into the legislature.

THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW.

Representative Houk, of Tennessee, is reported so hostile to the civil service law that he intends, when the appropriation bill comes up, to offer an amendment striking out the item making an appropriation for its support. Mr. Houk is certain to fail, if he makes this attempt, and yet it is undeniable that the law includes certain provisions that are condemned by public opinion as un-American, and unfair to a large class of citizens. At a recent meeting of the most intelligent republicans of Albany, N. Y., the following resolutions were adopted:

> Resolved, That any law which renders a citizen ineligible to hold office who is not too old to vote, and who is otherwise qualified, should be promptly changed.
> Resolved, That we favor a practical test for applicants for Federal appointments—such a test as a practical business man would apply in selecting his own employes.

The system of literary examinations as a test of fitness for office without reference to political affiliations is denounced as an abridgment of the American idea of political purity, party power and party responsibility, and it is urged that practical tests of competency should succeed literary examinations. It cannot be fairly urged that this dissatisfaction with the present form and administration of the civil service law is confined to a faction of disappointed party politicians, for General John Pope, U. S. A., a retired army officer, who never has been a politician, sets forth similar views in a strongly written article contributed to the current number of the North American Review. General Pope believes in a civil service law, but thinks that our present law was formed by doctrinaires disposed to imitate some foreign system which seems to have worked favorable results in other countries. On the contrary General Pope thinks that the fact that any such system worked well in France, or Germany, or England would not only not be presumptive evidence that it would suit us, but actual proof that it would not. The spirit of our people, their conditions of life and habits of thought, the absence of all class distinctions and our repugnance to such distinctions are all objections to the adoption of the "British system." There is force in this reasoning, for it is of kin to the logic which declares that if free trade is good for England, land-poor and over-populated, it cannot be good for the United States, which is land rich and by comparison sparsely populated. But General Pope might have added that the ablest teachers and social scientists of England recently signed a protest against the "vicious system of competitive examination for civil service appointments." England has given it a trial and her ablest men are disgusted with its results. They aver that it has made the English civil service a house of refuge for dullards and incompetents, and urge the application of some more practical tests than mere scholastic examinations of shallow literary consequence, that afford absolutely no fair test of fitness for the work to which the successful candidate will be assigned. General Pope carries the people with him, as we think, when he says that to base a civil service system upon the proposition that no officeholder shall take any part in the political movements of the people, except merely to vote, is repugnant to our whole idea of government. We bewail the fact that so many people neglect the duties of citizenship, and yet under our civil service system we disfranchise every officeholder in the country "by depriving him of half his rights and duties as a citizen, merely because he holds a public trust." One hundred thousand citizens of the United States are theoretically deprived of all participation in public affairs, except what is covered by a mere vote. General Pope says:

> I think it may be safely said that the people of this country will not give their sanction to either of two features which are essential parts of the system of civil service we are now attempting to put in operation. First, they will not consent that a large number presumably intelligent and respectable men shall be practically disfranchised to the extent of being prevented from active interest in public affairs, and, secondly, that they will never degrade the public offices of the country by making it more or less a reproach to accept one. In short, they will not consent to saddle this country for all time with a hundred thousand political eunuchs, who hold the offices of trust, but are for that reason incapacitated for the duties of good citizens.

Every administration goes into office on some well-defined policy which, as the agent of the people adopting it, it is bound by lawful means to make successful. No administration can do this if it shall decline the help of its appointees and keep in offices of trust and influence persons who are hostile to the policy victorious at the polls. The result is that the attempt under our civil service system to restrict the rights of citizenship of the office-holding class by preventing the officeholder from doing his full work as a factor in the elections has failed. It failed under Hayes, who issued the famous "Order No. 1;" it failed under Garfield and Arthur, naturally enough, for neither of them ever pretended to believe in it; and it failed under Cleveland, who pretended to believe in it, but did not. General Pope appreciates the fact that members of congress may nominate unfit persons for appointment, but thinks that when the unfitness became known the member of congress would lose his influence with the administration and his political standing at home. General Pope, in conclusion, thinks that the officeholders in Washington should be appointed by the president and chiefs of the great executive departments, and should be required to change their residences to the District of Columbia; and secondly, he proposes that the officers whose service is to be in the states whence appointed shall receive their "appointments on the recommendation of the senator or the representative in congress from their district, except in special cases and for special reasons. With the power to remove these officials at any time, the president would possess all the authority to enforce faithful performance of duty that he would have under any system, whilst the community would, in like manner, be able to deal with its member of congress, who would be responsible for the appointments, and who would thus be liable to lose influence alike with the administration and with his constituents."

JUDGE FIELD'S TESTIMONY.

No one can read the testimony of Judge Field, given in the Neagle case now under hearing in San Francisco, without feeling that the pistol of the deputy marshal was discharged not a moment too soon to save the life of the associate justice. The entire absence of malice; the plain, brief statement of facts showing the implacable and unreasoning hatred of the Terrys, man and wife, toward the witness; the fact that Judge Terry, powerful, determined and with murderous intent, stood over him in the very act of assaulting him when Neagle's pistol shot was fired, are features of this testimony that are simple, straightforward and convincing.

It is evident that the friends of Judge Field do not feel that the death of Terry relieves the judge from the haunting presence of danger. He is still closely guarded day and night, in order that he may not be taken unaware. The malignant character of his dead enemy was not more to be dreaded than that of the still living confederate. Sarah Althea is a woman who has nothing to lose but her life, and burdened, seared and despised as this is, it is scarcely worth the living. The quality of her temper has been often proven. Passionate, reckless, smarting under defeat, she is not as dangerous an enemy as was Judge Terry, only because she is not his physical equal. This counts for little, however, in the use of the pistol; hence the friends of the judge whose decision roused her ire do well to observe all necessary precaution to protect him from "wrath's surprise."

Deplorable as is a state of affairs that renders it necessary to mount guard over a Federal judge, whose only offense is that he gave a righteous decision in a notorious case, it is a matter of congratulation that he is upheld in his course by a public sentiment, so nearly unanimous that his few enemies can be readily shadowed. The uncomfortable and annoying position in which he finds himself is due to a decision rendered on the side of decency and justice. His friends are legion; his enemies are few, and it is only because of the mighty mischiefs of which desperate and dishonorable souls are capable that such measures as prudence dictates have been adopted for his protection.

A GOVERNMENT EXPEDITION.

The United States government will send a party of scientists to Africa to take observations of the total eclipse of the sun which will occur on the 22d of December. It is hoped that the new ship-of-war Baltimore, which is undergoing her first tests, will prove satisfactory and be placed at the disposal of the expedition. Her size will enable a large number of scientific scholars to go along—not simply astronomers, but naturalists, anthropologists, ethnologists and physicists, who can improve the opportunity to collect specimens and data in their several departments of research. As the Baltimore will have to make a long sea cruise anyway, this will afford the government a chance to kill two birds with one stone.

Congress appropriated $5000 for the necessary expense involved in taking the observations and it is expected that private liberality will provide a like sum for the maintenance, during the trip, of eager scientists who desire to join the expedition, but who cannot afford the expense. The party will sail from New York early in October. A continuous voyage will be made to the Cape Verde islands, a distance of some 3000 miles, thence to St. Paul de Loando on the southwest coast of Africa, and a railway now being built will carry the observers, with their instruments and supplies, some sixty miles in a generally southwest direction to Muxima, which is in about the middle path of the eclipse.

The apparatus carried will be as elaborate as possible, and the scientific world will await with eagerness the reports that the party will furnish upon the return of the expedition.

Scores of photographs will be taken of the partial phases of the eclipse, with very large cameras, and these will add materially to our knowledge of the motion of the moon, and so help the cause of accurate navigation; but most of the apparatus will be employed during the total eclipse, in investigating the corona, an appendage of the sun visible only during totality. A full knowledge of the corona is important in the study of solar physics.

Professor David P. Todd, of Amherst college, will be in charge of the expedition, which will, withal, be a notable one of its kind, and one which will reflect credit upon the government that sends it out.

The Ancon, it is said, was rotten and unseaworthy, a statement which the rapidity with which she went to pieces corroborates. It is fortunate indeed that the disaster did not occur, as in the case of the steamer Pacific, off Cape Flattery, a few years ago, or in that of the Brother Jonathan some time before, at a point where it was impossible to land the passengers. Both of these vessels were, like the Ancon, old rotten hulks that the water, when once it found an entrance, soon broke to pieces and sent to the bottom, carrying crew and passengers into the depths with them. Since the Ancon was unseaworthy from age and long use it is well that she went down when and where she did. Disaster is constantly impending over such vessels and humanity may congratulate itself when one such goes down without loss of life.

Our dispatches of yesterday contained the statement that Corporal Tanner, commissioner of pensions, would soon be out of office. His blatherskite loquacity is more than any administration could endure for four years. The Philadelphia Bulletin, a strict republican party paper, felicitously describes Tanner as "a professional veteran; that is, a man who seeks to make the G. A. R. tributary to his vanity or self-interest, and expects with the aid of his comrades to defy public opinion." In a recent speech before a meeting of veterans at Chautauqua, N. Y., Tanner said: "The pension roll cost the government $90,000,000 last year, and it is going to cost the government more next year." A wise man would have felt the responsibility of his office too much to utter such a speech. The most friendly picture of the man is the following, sketched by a prominent republican congressman from the East: "Corporal Tanner has not business ability enough to organize his office correspondence. He does not know enough to tell his clerks what letters to bring to him. The trouble is, he is not only not a lawyer, as every commissioner of pensions ought to be, but he is not a business man, as every commissioner of pensions must be. His work is all in confusion, as I know personally to my sorrow. He is working in the air like a steamboat with her wheels out of water. Tanner was a good soldier, and he is a good stump speaker, but he is a failure as commissioner of pensions."

A SLOW COACH.

Though THE OREGONIAN made every preparation to obtain a full report of the republican convention at Walla Walla, the effort was almost a failure through the inability of the Western Union to carry the report that was offered. Of the first day's proceedings of the convention THE OREGONIAN's reporters filed an account that extended to about 15,000 words. This report was continuous and quite full, and had it been transmitted, the whole spirit of the convention as well as its transactions, would have been placed before our readers. But the Western Union could not carry one-third of it, and only a meager summary of the principal events could be got through. Even the platform could not be telegraphed till the next day, and many of the minor, though important, incidents of the convention, were wholly lost. Seeing the impossibility of getting telegraphic service, our reporters cut the account of the second day's proceedings down to a bare outline. THE OREGONIAN did as well as other journals, perhaps better than most; but it must say that it was disappointed with the result, and it deems the present a fit occasion for the remark that the Western Union management ought to awaken to the fact that it is high time it was taking measures to accommodate the rapidly growing telegraphic business of the country. Walla Walla is a prominent point, and an enterprising telegraph company would not allow itself to be swamped by a little extra pressure of business at such a place.

A NATIONAL DIVORCE LAW.

To remedy the mischiefs resulting from the conflicting state marriage laws it has been proposed to empower congress to enact a uniform law of marriage and divorce, and a constitutional amendment to that effect has been suggested to the house of representatives. Able jurists are agreed, however, that such remedial measure will never be sanctioned by congress, because the Federal government could not assume jurisdiction over marriage and divorce without eventually absorbing all the legislative and judicial powers affecting the family relations. For this reason it is argued that the states will never grant the power of legislating upon marriage to congress.

But Mr. Snyder, the able author of "The Geography of Marriage" thinks that the states might assent to a prohibitory amendment. He proposes, for example, a constitutional amendment in this form,

> "No state shall grant a divorce except for adultery or for [here defining the other grounds of divorce]."

The amendment might further provide that no divorce should be granted unless the attorney general of the state or public prosecutor of the county should be made a party to the action; and, further, that a marriage valid where contracted should be valid everywhere, except where bigamy or polygamy has been practised.

It is reported that Herr Most, of anarchistic fame, will next November bring suit against the state of Illinois for damages in the sum of $500,000 for the execution of Lingg, Spies, Engel, Parsons and Fischer. He will claim that these gentle brothers were murdered as the result of a conspiracy between the state and the police. Herr Most has already determined that one-tenth of the amount recovered is to be paid to the families of the deceased and the remainder is to be used in prosecuting the noble work of anarchism. In other words, the state of Illinois, that has been infamously outraged by this class of lawless theorists, is to contribute to the support of Most and his lieutenants. It is a commentary on the freedom of our institutions that a demagogue so dangerous as this has been allowed an asylum in this country so long. Thus does lawlessness invoke the law despised to effect evil purposes. To drop Herr Most into the fathomless depths of the Atlantic would be less a crime than to permit him to inflame and incite the workingmen of this country by his foul and pernicious doctrines; or he might be confined in a madhouse, if this were not too cruel an infliction on the unfortunate inmates.

The English secretary for Ireland, Balfour, is a brute. An effort was recently made in parliament to secure the transfer of Mr. Conybeare from Londonderry jail to better quarters. Conybeare, who represents a division of Cornwall in parliament, is undergoing a sentence of six months in the Londonderry jail for participating in the plan of campaign, of which he has served two months already. He has been afflicted with a disease contracted in his cell, and he is covered with vermin. Balfour said, in response to questions from the Irish members, that he had no idea how Conybeare became covered with vermin, but supposed that the last occupant of the cell must have left them. When Balfour was asked who was the last occupant of the cell, he responded Father McFadden, a piece of gratuitous blackguardism, since the jail has been crowded all summer, and the martyr priest, who is a gentleman of high culture and breeding, was released in May.

The Pittsburg Dispatch, commenting on what it calls "the failure" of the cruiser Charleston, built at San Francisco, says: "So long as the policy of building ships all over the country for political motives is pursued, as it was in the case of the Charleston, there is little danger of our navy suffering from the reputation of too much rapidity." Of course the Dispatch would like to have all the vessels of the United States navy built in Pennsylvania, selfishly refusing any other portion of the country a chance. We have the satisfaction of knowing that the Charleston was a success, and will in all likelihood be promptly accepted by the United States government. There is no reason why the East should be able to build better ships than the Pacific Coast. Even Whitney, late secretary of the navy, had the business sagacity to see the point.

Emperor William, after all, seems to have a touch of humanity in his nature that was a ruling characteristic of his father, the late Emperor Frederick. He has declared that existing laws in Prussia are insufficient to protect laborers from the greed of capitalists, that the condition of the working people in many districts is deplorable in consequence and that reform is urgently necessary. Whether the imperial opinion will hasten this reform or not, it is evident that in expressing it the young emperor has touched the key-note of popularity in the hearts of the great mass of his subjects.

The purchase of lands from the Sioux Indians by the government, recently consummated included almost one-half of the reservation in Southwestern Dakota, aggregating about 11,000,000 acres. The sum of $1 an acre was paid for the lands, with a reserve of $3,000,000 more for educational purposes. The lands still reserved for the Indians are ample to provide each with a sufficient portion for his maintenance—a feature in Indian policy that is dictated by the civilization that surrounds the tribes of the entire Northwest, and must shortly become one of necessity in dealing with them. Hunting grounds are outdated. Fields, meadows, pastures and orchards must in the near future take their place.

Another foolhardy navigator was rescued in mid-ocean lately from the bottom of an "eighteen-foot dory," upon which he had lain prostrate four days before being picked up. Though exhausted and narrowly escaping death, he was quick to announce his intention of "trying it again." Fools who go to sea in open boats, and those who attempt to navigate the falls of Niagara in barrels, deserve little pity if they die in the attempt, and no commendation if they succeed to boast their folly. The success of such a venture proves nothing, except it may be that a fool is harder to kill than is a useful, sensible man.

Owing to the large amount of business now on hand that requires attention at the Oregon City landoffice, the register, Hon. J. T. Apperson announces that no further applications for timber land will be received until Monday, September 9, and during each week thereafter until further notice there will be received not to exceed thirty applications at this office. When it is remembered that each application is for 160 acres, it will be seen how rapidly the timber lands of Western Oregon are being taken up.

The republican platform of Washington declares for the appropriation of national funds for internal improvements and pledge the co-operation of Washington's congressional representatives with those of Oregon to secure speedy opening of the Columbia river. In this the people of Washington recognize that there can be no rivalry between their state and Oregon that will not result in benefit to both. The growth of the Northwest means the development of all the states.

The lawyers for the defense in the Cronin case resort to every device known to legal trickery to delay trial and secure a favorable jury. It seems to be the desire of the defense to secure ignorant, rather than intelligent men. They would have men who may be tangled up and misled, and from whom an acquittal or disagreement as a last resort may be wrung. From the opening scenes of the trial it does not seem as though the ends of justice will be attained.

Owing to the paralysis of the telegraphic service at Walla Walla during the convention many important announcements failed. Among them was the report of the action of the district convention for the counties of Clarke, Cowlitz, Wahkiakum and Pacific, on the nomination of superior judge. The candidates were B. F. Dennison and N. H. Bloomfield. The latter was nominated. The vote was 19 for Bloomfield and 9 for Dennison.

Attempts are being made to provide free text-books for the pupils of the New Haven schools, and a school campaign with this for its chief issue is in progress in that city at present. But little interest is being taken in the matter by the general public, practical people being willing that parents should be permitted to do some things for their children without appealing to the state for assistance.

Some days ago a paragraph appeared in THE OREGONIAN in which it was stated that "Washington was not a communicant of an ecclesiastical organization." Bishop Morris writes a note stating that "Washington was a member of the Episcopal church, a constant attendant upon its services and a vestryman in his parish."

---

Colonel L. S. Howlett, once an editor in Oregon, but now a resident of Yakima, Washington, was a prominent figure in the convention at Walla Walla, and as a candidate for the nomination for the office of governor, obtained consideration which indicates that he may be a "coming man" in future conventions.

Notwithstanding the fact that the law taxing oleomargarine was intended to discourage its production, the amount made has steadily increased, as follows: 1887, 21,700,202 pounds; 1888, 32,667,755; 1889, 33,865,120.

PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

AN UNMITIGATED NUISANCE.—Last even[illegible] United States District Attorney L. L. McAr[illegible] and Mr. Sanderson Reed were driving behind a very spirited horse, says the Telegram, approaching Morrison street, between First and [illegible] and, the din made by the most abominable of nuisances, the Salvation Army, frightened the animal. It began to play "circus," break the harness, and there might have been a serious [illegible] way had it not been for the great physical strength of Mr. McArthur, who managed to avert a disaster. The scaring of horses and making a horrid din on the streets are about all the visible results of the work of the Salvation Army. For amusement between spells some of the [illegible] husky, red shirted tramps go around ringing bells and bringing people to their doors to be [illegible] copy of the War Whoop. The army is a nuisance which cannot be abated and which won't die, [illegible] or go away.

THE FIERY CROSS WON.—One day, some months ago, the British ships Fiery Cross and Hornby Castle, sailed from the mouth of the Columbia river for Queenstown, England. There was nothing unusual in this, but previous to the sailing of the two vessels their captains [illegible] and each claimed his craft to be the faster sailer. Neither could convince the other [illegible] was wrong, so finally they bet $500 on their [illegible] and as they were bound for the same port and sailed on the same day. Information has been received in this city to the effect that the Fiery Cross reached Queenstown August 15, [illegible] winning the race, having been out only [illegible]. The Fiery Cross was laden with [illegible] of wheat, the Hornby Castle carrying [illegible] of the same material.

AN IMMENSE BONE.—A gigantic bone, [illegible] the femur or thigh bone of a mastodon or some other huge prehistoric animal, was seen by a reporter yesterday at Hudson's gun store. [illegible] purchased from a man who declined to state exactly where he found it, as he says there are other bones around the place, and he expects to find other parts of the skeleton of the huge beast. The bone, which is well preserved, is nearly [illegible] feet long, and the head which fitted into the socket in the hip is forty-two inches in circumference. Many who saw it and who had seen bones of other mastodons said this was the largest they had ever seen. It is certainly a whopper and must have belonged to a gigantic specimen of the mastodon [illegible].

ROUGH EXPERIENCE OF A HORSE.—Yesterday afternoon a large white horse attached to a dump cart backed off the steep grade of the terrace road being built on Hoffman's hill, at the end of Seventh street, and rolled down about 100 feet. It was thought that the animal would certainly be killed, as the incline was very steep. Part of the way down the hill, the horse and cart struck a fence but broke through it, and did not stop until another was reached which checked them. To the great surprise of everyone who witnessed the accident, the horse on striking the second fence immediately scrambled to its feet, apparently uninjured, and commenced nibbling a choice bunch of grass.

GRAND LODGE K. OF P.—Extensive preparations are being made for the grand lodge meeting of the uniformed rank, K. of P., to be held at Astoria October 9. Six companies of the Oregon battalion will hold a competitive drill for prizes, and a grand ball will follow the ceremonies of the lodge. Alex Campbell, C. Evenson and August Danielson, of Astoria lodge, and [illegible] Cleveland, E. C. Hughes and Ed Hallock, of [illegible] lodge, have been appointed committees to perfect arrangements for the meeting, and a brass band will meet the various boats arriving to escort the visiting Knights to the hall. A street parade will precede the exercises.

POISONING VALUABLE HUNTING DOGS.—Some unknown person in the lower end of the city is making a record for poisoning dogs. A number of valuable canines have departed by the poison route during the past year. H. H. Beal, who lives on the corner of Sixteenth and N streets, alone has lost seven dogs, the last one having been poisoned in his woodshed, where it was chained, only [illegible] five days ago. Another gentleman, residing [illegible] blocks from Mr. Beal, lost a valuable setter [illegible] days before that. There is some talk of organizing a vigilance committee, and if the sly dog poisoner is apprehended it may go hard with him.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.—The mangled remains of a Chinese section hand were found at [illegible] on the line of the Southern Pacific railway about 7 o'clock Thursday evening. The body was placed in a rough coffin and sent to this city for burial. It is learned that the name of the unfortunate Chinaman was Ung You Youll, aged [illegible] years, and an employe of the Chung [illegible] Chung Company, who hired him out to the Southern Pacific Company about six months ago. It is not known just how the cars ran over him. The remains were removed from the morgue to Lone Fir cemetery yesterday afternoon.

SOLDIERS ON THE MARCH.—Uncle Sam's soldiers at Vancouver are beginning to leave on their summer marches. Troop F, Second cavalry, started yesterday for Lake Chelan, in the northern part of Washington territory. [illegible] Martin, Fourteenth Infantry, also left for [illegible] with a train of six wagons. He will go to Mount Hood, where he will join Colonel [illegible]'s command of six companies, which will leave Vancouver on September 14. From Mount Hood the soldiers will march to the Umatilla reservation for a ten days' camp, and return to Vancouver barracks about the middle of October.

CONCERNED FOR THEIR SALVATION.—An [illegible] member of the Salvation Army, signing himself Adjutant Frank Robinson, sends the following consoling news on the back of a postal card from Oakland, Cal.: "Dear Editors I am [illegible] praying for You I Am Going to Open a Garrison in San Francisco Soon hope to Make Portland All This Winter God bless You Adjt Frank Robinson American Salvation Army." If this [illegible] windbag would remain at home and mind his own business, if he has any, there would be more rejoicing than there possibly can be if he comes to inflict himself on this community.

GONE TO SPOKANE.—Chief Clerk W. T. [illegible] of the railway mail service, left yesterday for Spokane Falls, and Inspector Trenlin has [illegible] from San Francisco for the same place, to look after the postoffice there and see that the [illegible] mission of the mails is not impeded by the [illegible] of the postoffice there. The clerks in the [illegible] office are not inclined to do anything [illegible] ay, but will go on with the work of the [illegible] until their salaries have been increased or help provided.

FAIR IN SOUTHERN OREGON.—The Southern Oregon State Board of Agriculture is making preparations for its district fair, to be held at Central Point, Jackson county, beginning Sept. [illegible]. Colonel Robert A. Miller, the secretary of the association, writes from Jacksonville that the horticultural display will be exceptionally fine, Southern Oregon being noted for its [illegible] fruits, while the trials of speed will be up to the usual standard.

AT THE HOT SPRINGS.—Mrs. Sarah A. [illegible], with her oldest son, Glenn, who for some time past has been troubled with an affection of the lungs, her sister, Miss Emma Riggs, and [illegible] Mr. Breese Riggs, all of Polk county, near Dixey, have been spending several weeks at the Foley Hot Springs. The health of Mr. [illegible] Lewis has improved considerably [illegible].

THE NEW OPERA.—Work is progressing [illegible] on the new theater, the walls being now [illegible] the first gallery or dress circle, the frame [illegible] which is up. The space allowed for the [illegible] very liberal. The distance from the front of the dress circle to the stage is, in conformity with the modern style of building theaters, not so [illegible] old style buildings.

MR. S. FRIEDENRICH, one of the [illegible] pianists on this coast and representative [illegible] of San Francisco, has consented to [illegible] a Brothjan concert, which will take place Tuesday evening. Watch programme in SUNDAY'S OREGONIAN. The management has endeavored to eclipse anything given here in this city.

HE GAVE BACK THE MONEY.—A hackman named Gilland several nights since charged a lady $2.50 for conveying herself and a trunk over a block. By mistake the lady gave him a gold piece for a half dollar, which he didn't accept. The next day a blue-buttoned guardian of the peace made the hackman disgorge his ill-gotten gain.

REMEMBER OUR regular Saturday sale of [illegible] and shoes. Ladies' kid button shoes, [illegible] $1.50; ladies' grain button shoes, 2½ to [illegible]; ladies' grain button shoes, W. B. H., $1.75; [illegible] grain working shoes, $1.75. Remember we are the sole agents for the Little Red School [illegible] shoe. E. Meyer & Co., 180 and 182 First street, [illegible] Yamhill.

Selling & Co.—[illegible] pieces 56-inch table linen, 17c per yard; [illegible] damask towels 23c, worth 40c; beaded capes [illegible] sweaters, made of finest zephyr, $1.75; men's fancy cassimere suits, $15; boys' black felt [illegible]; C. B. a la spirite corsets, $1; and [illegible] men's seamless socks at 10c per pair, to-day.

A TREAT IN STORE.—A correspondent says: At St. Paul's M. E. church, this city, to-morrow a rare treat is in store. Rev. George [illegible], pastor First church, Tacoma, will preach in the morning, and Rev. Thomas J. Massey, of the [illegible] university, in the evening. These are both men of rare gifts.

CONTRACT AWARDED.—The contract for [illegible] new sidewalks around the plaza blocks and such of the park blocks as require this improvement was awarded at the last meeting of the council to Mr. James Johnson. He will begin work on the contract Monday.

SICK WITH TYPHOID.—Mr. M. Koshland, of San Francisco, who has been sick with typhoid fever for the past two months at the residence of [illegible] Raphel, was yesterday removed to [illegible] Heights, in hope that the change would [illegible] his recovery.

ACCIDENT TO PROFESSOR HULL.—Professor [illegible] Hull, of the State Agricultural college at Corvallis, had a severe fall the other day, resulting in the fracture of his right forearm at the wrist and the breaking of the little finger.

DON'T FORGET that Kohn, Second and Morrison, sells hats 25 per cent. cheaper than anywhere else in this city.

PORTLAND WILL BEAT SAN FRANCISCO.

The Big Exposition Will Cast the California Town's Fair Into the Shade.

Portland will have no trouble in having the finest exposition on the Pacific coast this year. Portlanders who have been to San Francisco and who have visited the Mechanics' fair, say it is far below the usual standard. On the opening night it was no fair at all. The display of machinery and manufactured products was average, and the horticultural display next to nothing, consisting of some withered vegetables and fruit, and was a severe reflection upon California's greatness. The art gallery was only an art gallery in name, not in fact. Cheap daubs and chromos were the rule, and there were but few meritorious paintings. Since the opening night additions and improvements have been made, but the fair is not what Portland's great exposition will be.

GLADSTONE'S DANGER.

Robert Wallace member of parliament for Edinburgh, in a recent interview said The nationalists seem to think that having got Gladstone they have all liberalism It is not so The Presbyterians and freethinkers rub their eyes at the proposal to flaunt the scarlet woman, the attempt to endow an Irish Catholic university and will rally under one banner All are enemies of denominationalism " This is no idle threat, and nobody knows it better than Mr Gladstone himself, for when he was prime minister in 1870 he undertook, through the so-called Forster education bill, to provide for public elementary education in England and Wales In order to adopt existing schools, under charge of various religious bodies into his scheme and to affiliate them to the proposed governmental system of education, Mr Forster found that he had to make some concessions to the religious principles on which such schools were founded, since he could not by any sudden stroke of authority change them all into secular schools, so he proposed to meet this difficulty by adopting regulations compelling every school which obtained government aid to accept a conscience clause by means of which the religious convictions of parents and children should be scrupulously regarded in the instruction given during regular school hours On this point the whole body of English and Welch Nonconformists broke away from Gladstone and the government They laid down the broad principle, to-day reiterated by Mr Wallace, that no state aid whatever should be given to any schools but those which are conducted on strictly secular and undenominational principles The public money, the contribution of citizens of all shades of belief ought not to be given to any denominational school The battle that followed was so bitter that Gladstone and Forster only finally won by appealing for help to conservatives and the Roman Catholics against the Nonconformists who had hitherto warmly supported Gladstone's liberal party. The Nonconformists helped Sir Robert Peel to establish, more than forty years ago the so-called "Godless" or secular colleges in Ireland These were opposed by Catholics and condemned by the pope and the Irish bishops, but the Nonconformists were then, as they were in 1870, unalterably opposed to government aid to any but secular schools. Gladstone, to be consistent with his record of 1870, must support the tory "Catholic University for Ireland" scheme, and if he does his influence over the English and Scotch Nonconformists will be gone and he will be a great liberal leader without any party to lead It begins to look as if this "Catholic University" scheme would break the unity of the home rule party, if it commands the support of Gladstone

SCOLDING AND THE LAW

Brawling women who are in the habit of scolding and storming at their neighbors and taking up the time of the police court in the effort to determine who had the first and who the last word in a vocal combat are under notice to beware During the past month there were prosecutions of women as "common scolds" in the states of New Jersey New York, Minnesota and Georgia and a woman of Fayette county Pa is now awaiting trial on the same grave charge The penalty for a breach of the peace of this kind a hundred years ago was as every one knows the "ducking stool" and exaggerated pictures representing a terrified woman clinging desperately to the end of a plank extending over water which was hung on a pivot, while an officer with anything but a doleful expression of countenance presided at the other end to work the machine and insure the required number of dips" are recalled by the very mention of the old time punishment. Inasmuch as this penalty has not been visited upon scolding women for a century more or less the exact form of its administration is a matter of conjecture However, the name indicates the punishment with sufficient suggestiveness, and though there seems to be a concerted action against scolding women it is not likely that this peculiar mode of punishment will be revived

In the year 1825 a woman in the city of Philadelphia was convicted of offensive warfare with her tongue and the sentence was, at common law, that she be placed in a ducking stool and be plunged three times in the water

Upon appeal to the supreme court it was decided that such punishment was outdated as "cruel and unusual" and that it was in vogue at a time when women were subjected to degradation as slaves Authorities differed as to what the original punishment was, and how therefore it was to be executed upon offenders if executed at all Later the same court decided that it was for the legislature to declare the ducking stool a legal form of penalty or to substitute some other for the offense to which this had originally applied

In Oregon the common scold, as such has immunity from legal penalty though there is abundant evidence that marital wrath not infrequently lays a temporary injunction upon her Inasmuch however as Oregon legislators have been known to enact some peculiar laws it will not be safe for women who boast the tongue as an all conquering weapon to feel secure in its too active exercise A body that has boldly attempted to place restraints upon corporations may essay the not more difficult task of controlling an irate woman's tongue regardless of the fact that there is a vast difference between legal enactments and their enforcement

THE FUTURE OF AFRICA

Two transcontinental railroads are projected for the continent of Africa. One with a western terminus at Monrovia, the chief city of Liberia The route will traverse Masina Sakota Darfur Abyssinia with an eastern terminus at the foot of the Red sea The other will begin at the mouth of the Congo cut through the country explored by Henry M Stanley with an eastern terminus near Zanzibar. The great explorer has declared on more than one occasion that such roads would yield a profit from their inception A statement of so sweeping nature as this may be taken with a grain of discount but there is no denying the fact that the continent of Africa within a century will offer a limitless field to human enterprise

A quarter of a century ago this was the land of darkness but explorers who have overmastered dangers and difficulties and returned relate stories of an El Dorado whose glories in time may tempt the avarice or love of conquest of all nations There is no plant grain or product that cannot be cultivated here in rich abundance The forests are filled with valuable timber the streams teem with fish the earth is bursting with rich ore of every description and every shade of climate is there, from torrid to frigid zone

Nowhere save in a few straggling coast settlements has the great realm felt the impress of civilization yet from the regions bordering on the Mediterranean from Liberia and from the British possessions in South Africa, the exports and imports have reached a valuation of $400 000 000 annually This, too, with limited facilities and small population.

When railroads shall have furrowed the undeveloped area, and the telegraph draw distant parts socially and commercially near, when the savage tribes are annihilated or assimilated into civilization who can picture the future destiny of Africa? Communities, villages, states and nations will spring up Fields of golden products gladden the tiller of the soil, fortunes reward the miner, sawmills make music on every stream paving the way for the generations that are to come That which seems a wild dream to-day will materialize and become an active reality ere many centuries shall have passed into history

POLITICS IN GENERAL.

Governor Palmer and Ex Congressman Morrison are likely to have an unexpected rival for the senatorship in the very improbable contingency of the democrats carrying the Illinois legislature next year

With only two counties to hear from the vote in the recent state election of Kentucky stands Republican, 114 2[illegible]8 democratic 147 7[illegible] prohibition 3[illegible]1 The republican vote shows a falling off of 1[illegible] 600 from the state election of 1887 and the democratic vote is about [illegible] 000 less

Senator Wade Hampton of South Carolina would gladly vote for an appropriation of $50 000 000 for the purpose of helping the negroes out of the country and finding homes for them elsewhere—in Cuba for instance Hampton's generosity is beyond question He proceeds to spend the nation's entire fortune in three easy chunks provided [illegible] of those of his countrymen whose votes he fears

In Virginia the Democrats are endeavoring to blow hot and to blow cold They insist that the republicans intend to put the black man on top but the republicans have nominated ex Confederate soldiers for the three leading places on the ticket The democrats insist that the republicans are hopelessly divided into factions and at the same time complain that the administration has forced a solid front in the republican party in the Old Dominion The fact is the democrats are greatly alarmed at the situation in Virginia

Governor Hill of New York does not want a tariff fight in that state To escape it he has taken special pains to insert in the call for the democratic state convention an appeal for the support of those persons who are opposed to sumptuary legislation In other words, he wants the fight made on the whisky question He has steadily opposed everything in the way of legislation that would make the whisky dealers bear a fair share of taxation In return he has had their support and money to carry on his campaigns.

A special dispatch from Washington to the Des Moines Register says "Of the fourth-class postmasters so far appointed since March 4 (some 16,000 in all), over one half are Union soldiers The postoffice department interprets the law enacted on this subject in the spirit and conscience of the people as meaning that the soldier when he is capable must be given the preference Union soldiers who hold small offices are retained in them if they are making a good record, and they are not changed unless they are replaced by a more competent soldier Of course it is not possible always to appoint a soldier but the rule is to do it "

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Some of the democratic editors in this state who are writing such a lot of bosh about the Republican plutocrats should stop just long enough to recall the fact that Jay Gould was the first man in the United States to congratulate Cleveland upon his election to the presidency

According to the Benton Leader the Rev Mr Rogers of Corvallis, has found in the fourth verse of the seventh chapter of Nehemiah a description of some of the new towns founded during the past season by energetic real estate men It reads as follows "And the city was large and great but the people were few therein and the houses were not builded.

Passengers on the west bound O R & N train through Hilgard the other evening saw the effigy of a man swinging from a telegraph pole It was labeled with the name of a certain young man of that town who did not have sense enough to stop annoying by his unwelcome attentions a young lady to whom he had rendered himself very obnoxious The hanging in effigy was a suggestion to the young man that the young lady had some male relatives and friends who do not propose to see her annoyed

James E. Knox chairman of the Linn county prohibition central committee, has caused to be published an announcement that there will be a meeting at the various voting places in Linn county on Wednesday September 11 at 1 o clock, to elect delegates to the conference of the labor parties prohibition parties and the grange. As to the connection of the grange with the new coalescence prominent Linn county grangers say that the managers are bargaining goods which they cannot deliver that the grange as an organization does not dabble in politics and will not send any delegates

Hillsboro has taken warning from other cities and towns in the Northwest and will soon have some considerable protection against fire Mayor Linklater and members of the council, who were empowered to act in the matter have purchased the hand engine of the Albany fire department together with a hose cart and 400 feet of hose for which Hillsboro pays $800 This engine is one of the best of its kind on the coast and has done good service for Albany in the past It is still in good condition and in case of a fire at Hillsboro would form a valuable aid in preventing the spread of the flames

The advancement in civilization made by the Warm Springs Indians has been mentioned frequently and the Ochoco Review says it is probably most noticeable in the way they pattern after the whites in their style of dress and their desire to own hacks and buggies in which to ride over the country As farmers and gardeners they also deserve some credit This season they have been supplying the Prineville market with vegetables [illegible] put the white gardeners to shame and show that the native American has learned the secret of making the ground produce as well as his white brother

The heathen Chinee is getting altogether too civilized Up at Albany the other day the employe of a livery stable stood and gazed at a pair of white pantaloons owned by a Chinese laundryman, which hung upon a line in an adjoining lot until he conceived the irresistibly funny idea of putting them on After wearing them several hours and making a fool of himself to the great satisfaction of the passers by he painted the breeches with axle grease and hung them back on Hop Lee's line But Lee somewhat surprised the funny stableman when he came over and quietly informed him that he could either take the breeches and pay for them or be arrested He paid

Much damage has been done to grain fields and farm property this season by fires starting from sparks thrown out by passing locomotives. Several timber fires it is known have started from the same cause. The Southern Pacific depot at Albany was imperiled one day last week by such a fire Had it been consumed it is possible the fact that sparks from engines are capable of doing damage would have been sufficiently impressed upon the minds of the railroad officials to cause them to provide their locomotives with spark arresters. Although there is yet no law in Oregon compelling railroad companies to take this simple precaution in the interest of farmers, yet it would seem a matter of plain justice that it should be done It is true that it is the general policy of railroads to do nothing for the general public but what the law compels, but that company which would have the good will of the people upon which it is dependent for support would be acting against its own advantage by voluntarily adopting the opposite policy

The surveyed line of the Albany & Astoria railway runs through a country comparatively level for a considerable distance and men who have been over the route say that the country it penetrates will prove to be one of the richest portions of the state. The pass through the Coast range of mountains is hardly entitled to the name of a mountain pass its snow line being only about 300 feet above the altitude of Albany The surveyors are now at work on Three Rivers which is ten miles beyond the toll gate on Fuqua's toll road, and is thirteen miles beyond Hitchcock's store on the Grand Ronde Indian reservation The people along the route of the proposed road are most favorably inclined toward the project and no trouble will be encountered in securing the right of way. Land along the route has already advanced perceptibly in consequence of the railroad work.

The Tillamook wagon road, for which $10 000 was appropriated by the last legislature is being made as fast as a large force of men can push it along to a junction with Fuqua's toll road in the southern end of the [illegible] The [illegible] to whose efforts in the state legislature this appropriation is due [illegible] superintending [illegible] construction of this road [illegible] with the county [illegible] guarantee that the [illegible] The northern terminus of the road is [illegible] a fine country which has been [illegible] the [illegible] appropriation is [illegible] to build a branch road from [illegible] [illegible] wagon roads [illegible] all the [illegible] will be of great benefit to the whole state as [illegible] to the particular section to [illegible]

WHEAT—The market is dull and but little iness is being transacted. The Minnesota ly Market Record of recent date has the following on the crop outlook of that state:

The spring wheat harvest is nearly over and the threshing has been done in the southwest counties of Minnesota and Dakota, with some of the northern. It has been to the north that people have for a few late years come to look for the bulk of it, as in the east and south of Minnesota and in the south of Dakota wheat had not done well for a few years and farmers had left off the cultivation of it, to considerable extent. Yet, the returns of big yields from the south this year show that it will add materially to the outcome. The commissioner of statistics has returns from a few of the southern counties in this state, and some of them that had hardly been considered in making up the wheat crop in late years have produced this year more than 6,000,000 bushels on about 330,000 acres. If the yield of the remainder could equal them, the total crop of Minnesota would reach 54,000,000 bushels. Some counties are not so good as those making returns, while others are better, and it is fair to conclude that the total for this state will make about 50,000,000 bushels. Dakotas seem to show about 40,000,000 bushels, making together about 90,000,000. Rains which in the week did no damage to small grain ... their only effect having been to delay the work in the harvest fields; while corn and the late crops, which in some sections were suffering for lack of moisture, were much benefited. There is still complaint from some localities in southwestern Minnesota, Northern Iowa and southern Dakota of a lack of rain. On the whole, however, the corn crop in these states ... in good condition and reports show also the condition of the corn in Nebraska. Flax is yielding well, and hay, which it was feared a ... would be a short crop, will be plenty ... most sections. Field help was very scarce in ... and some of the farmers found great difficulty in getting enough men together to form threshing crews.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The O. R. & N. Co. has chartered the steamer Lakne to run in connection with the steamers Idaho and Michigan, on the Portland-Puget Sound route.

The Steamer Idaho sailed at 10 P. M. yesterday for Puget sound.

The steamer Oregon did not reach Astoria until 1:20 P. M. yesterday, because of heavy tradewinds. She was due last Thursday.

The British ship Fiery Cross has arrived at Queenstown. Her captain made a bet with the captain of the British ship Hornby Castle, $500, that he would beat him to their home port. The Fiery Cross won the bet. It is supposed the Hornby Castle met with a succession of calms after crossing the equator.

The schooner Ruby A. Cousins, which lately brought up a cargo of redwood lumber to this city, left here yesterday, in tow of the steamer Ocklahama, for Astoria, where she will load fir lumber for Los Angeles and San Diego.

HE CAME FROM OLD IRELAND.

The Roller Process Was What Brought Him Out to This Country.

Mr. Hallinan, a Corkonian, Gives His Experience in the Milling Business—What He Lost While at It.

The establishment of flour mills in this city and the extension of the milling interest in this state, is looked upon by the citizens of the state as a very good thing, but probably few have any idea of the effect this has had in other places

In the office of Mr William Dunbar of the Oregon Milling Company, a reporter met Mr John Hallinan, who lately arrived here from Cove of Cork, Ireland, who stated that the millers of this state had caused him a loss of £49,000 or about $245,000 in five years.

Mr Hallinan, who is a very intelligent gentleman, something over 60 years of age, but stout and hearty looking, has been connected with the milling business near Queenstown for nearly half a century

For many years it was a profitable business, but when the roller process came into vogue, first in Hungary and then in the United States, the flour produced came in so cheap that the milling business in Ireland was ruined The Americans adopted the roller process at once all over the country, but British millers did not adopt it so readily, and consequently were soon shut out, or, rather, shut up.

"The mill which Mr Hallinan bought had been run for six years before by a countryman of Mr Dunbar," said Mr Hallinan with a merry twinkle in his eye, "who sunk £220 000 in that time for a friend who loaned his credit The money was not all lost in the mill, but by extensive and wild speculations in wheat cargoes and I thought," said Mr Hallinan "that with my experience and by strict attention to business I could make it go"

"Everything, however, seemed to go against me. The American flour came in so cheap and so good that it was difficult to compete with it, and then the Russian wheat got bad and our cheap supply was thus cut off and after struggling along for five years and losing £40,000 I gave up the unequal struggle and shut the mill down It was a good mill with eighteen run of stones and water carriage to the door, and I bought wheat and shipped away flour on lighters and my business amounted to £200 000—$1 000,000 a year, but the mill has not turned a wheel since 1881

Having been put to bad by American millers, Mr Hallinan has come over to see how it is done, to beard the lion in his den as it were He has brought along his family, consisting of his wife, five daughters and two sons, and is going to stay here and "grow up with the country" One of his daughters, who was educated in Belgium and has taught there, is a fine scholar in French and music, and will doubtless soon find a situation in some of the numerous schools here. The younger ones he intends shall have the benefit of our public schools. He will engage in the milling business in some capacity, and they will all doubtless do well in this country His long experience and extensive acquaintance with milling wheats from all parts of the world should be of value,

Mr Hallinan says now that millers in Ireland have adopted the roller system, that they are doing well and making money again. They are getting cheap wheat from Russia, India and Australia and are getting along very well and will be able to some extent at least to hold their own against the American flour

Our bakers may make a note of the fact that notwithstanding they have the fine flour which drove Mr Hallinan out of business, he says he has not tasted any good bread since he came here It is not so sweet and nutritious as he has been accustomed to He is favorably impressed with Portland and the people he has met, and with Americans generally He has met a great many of them in the old country and always enjoyed talking with them He says there is no mystery about the Americans, they talk freely, and are ready to tell what they know about any subject, while one might travel a week with an Englishman without getting an idea out of him on any subject.

OPERATIONS AT THE JETTY.

Work of Inspection Completed—Good Effects of the Improvement Apparent.

Colonel George E Mendell and Major T H Handbury, United States engineers, have completed an inspection of the government works at the mouth of the Columbia. The work on the jetty at Fort Stevens is making very favorable progress. The tramway was extended 1436 feet during the month of August, which is the greatest distance attained in any one month. The tramway now extends over two miles from the shore. The mattress work and a layer of rock is as nearly out to the end of the tramway as the trains can work to advantage.

The tramway is now over two miles out from the shore, and one mile of this has been built since last April. During the past month 12,400 tons of rock has been dumped on the jetty, and about 16,000 cords of brush The stone will be gradually brought up to the required hight which is about that of mean low water, as fast as the sand fills in behind it

The end of the tramway is now nearing the east side of Tillamook chute which is gradually filling up, so that it is not apprehended that there will be any trouble about extending the jetty across it.

The present appropriation will keep the work going till the end of the season, and provide for caring for the plant during the winter It is hoped that further appropriation can be secured in time to enable operations to be resumed on this important work at the beginning of next season The jetty is intended to be four to four and a half miles in length, and if work is begun early next year, with the present perfected appliances the jetty will be well along toward completion by next fall.

The parties now engaged in making a survey of the mouth of the river have not made sufficient progress with their work to furnish any definite idea of the changes and improvements made in the channel by the jetty so far as completed.

MOSBURG OF NEWBERG EXONERATED

At the Conclusion of His Examination on a Charge of Arson Yesterday He Was Discharged.

The examination of Charles Mosburg the Newberg grocer man recently arrested on a charge of arson, was concluded yesterday noon at that place, resulting in the acquittal of the defendant

It will be remembered that on the 17th of last month, a fire which destroyed several buildings in the new addition of Newberg originated in the general grocery store of Mr Mosburg The insurances were adjusted and nothing more was heard of the matter until four or five days ago when Officers Barry and Griffin arrested Mosburg in this city on dispatches from the sheriff of Yamhill county charging him with arson The arrest was a surprise both to him as well as to his friends, and created not a little excitement in the quiet hamlet of Newberg

The case was conducted by Judge Hurley and J C Mayers for the state, and Messrs. Caples and Ditchburn, of Portland for the defense. The courtroom was packed, and about twenty five witnesses were examined The testimony disclosed the fact that the stock in the defendant's store was worth from $[illegible] to $3000 and the household furniture about $1500 and as the entire insurance only amounted to $1300 no motive for arson could be shown It looked a little as though the arrest had been prompted by jealousies or malice, the defendant being a newcomer and an extensive advertiser, which was a little distasteful to the mossback element used to slower ways.

At the conclusion of the examination Mr Mosburg received the congratulations of the prosecuting attorneys, as well as of his friends and he will probably start in business at the same place at once

SPORT AT RIVERSIDE

Interesting Horse Racing and a Regatta To-Day—The Entries

A fine afternoon sport is offered the public at Riverside to-day The Driving Association having given such select and interesting entertainments deserve liberal patronage, especially on this occasion.

People should remember that it is through the efforts of this association that we have a public drive in Portland that is kept in perfect order and free from dust. These races are given to enable the citizens of this city to contribute in a small way their share to the funds which are entirely devoted to the public good, no member or officer of the Multnomah Driving Association receiving any monetary reward for services whatever.

To-day the steamer Undine will leave the foot of Taylor street, at 1.45 P M, direct for Riverside, returning after the races. A good band will accompany the excursion and a better opportunity to spend a pleasant day is seldom offered In addition to the usual trotting races, which on this occasion will be unusually close and exciting there will be a boat race which can be witnessed from the balconies of the Riverside hotel. The crews have been carefully selected from members of the Portland Rowing Association and the race will be close undoubtedly

Following are the entries for the horse races—

First race—C H. Leonard's Little Nell W B King's Henry

Second race—Dr Mackenzie's Grannie L. M Russell's Hickory

Third race—H C. Allen's Black Prince, B F Hayden's Ada E.

The personnel of the rowing team is

First crew—C D McLaine stroke Robert Shiel No. 3, J W Paine No 2 and L B Carrbow

This race will take place immediately after the races.

THE NEED OF A PATROL WAGON.

Two Officers Have a Rough Experience in Taking a Drunken Woman to Jail—She Fought and Screamed

It is quite a job sometimes to take a drunken man to jail, but the experience of Officers Coffin and Austin yesterday afternoon thoroughly convinced them that one healthy female under the exhilarating influence of corn juice can give more trouble than a small army of men

Mrs Hanlon a frequent patron of the police court, was found yesterday afternoon at the corner of Water and Harrison streets in the seventeenth stage of intoxication The officers wanted to take her in but she most emphatically objected All entreaties and threats failing to change her from her decision the officers were obliged to summon an express wagon in order to make better time It was not the easiest task in the world for the three men to get her into the wagon but it was much more of a task to keep her there after she was in It required the combined strength of the two blue coats to keep her down and when they arrived at the police station they were much more fagged out than she was She had kicked screamed, scratched and fought the entire way

Officer Coffin's hat was in a sorry state of dilapidation, and somewhat resembled a cow's cud, while one side of Officer Austin's coat was completely torn from his body Besides both officers received numerous scratches on their hands.

After Mrs. Hanlon was placed in a dark cell she continued swearing and shouting for nearly three hours, before any signs of fatigue or exhaustion were manifested in the volume of her voice The officers took off their coats to dry out the perspiration, and for a few minutes fell into easy chairs for a well earned rest

The experience of these officers with an obstreperous drunken woman should be the strongest possible argument in favor of a patrol wagon With a regulation patrol wagon such as are used in all Eastern cities the woman could have been taken to jail without difficulty and without attracting attention As it was the disgusting spectacle of a woman kicking and screaming two officers holding her down in an open express wagon and a crowd of boys following after is not a proper combination for public parade and must have, too a most demoralizing effect on public morals.

AT THE THEATERS

Comic Opera at the New Park—"The White Slave" at Musee Theater

The Wyatt Opera Company in 'Virginia' drew another appreciative audience at the New Park last evening and the several numbers were well sung and elicited frequent encores The company is an exceedingly clever one, and a better male chorus has never been heard here

At the matinee this afternoon "Patience" will be sung for the last time

Last two performances of "Virginia" to-night and to-morrow night

CORDRAY'S MUSEE AND THEATER.

The week for the "White Slave" is approaching its end, but it has been very successful, both in the performance and attendance A marked improvement was apparent in last night's performance Miss Essie Tittell's Lisa was really an able portraiture of the character and gives still further hopes of her future Mr Phillips in Clay Britton supported her much better than in the earlier part of the week It is the privilege of the press to make suggestions, and when made in a generous spirit it is pleasant to have them accepted It is not the custom nowadays among cultured actors to give a common conversation with stagey vehemence We cannot carry stage mannerisms into private life, but we can carry the customs of private life to the stage and the improvement is so great, that except in cases of violent emotion passions or feeling, it should be adopted by all. particu Misses Lingham and Darragh were both also very good, and Sam Morris excelled all previous efforts as Stitch The Lacy of Came merits the same good word The old American slave dealer may have been cruel, rough and heartless, but he was never a cut throat bandit The popular Miss Tittell gave her specialties with great ability especially Give Me a Cake Mamma " Her dancing was really excellent She justly received three recalls and then the people seemed hardly satisfied Frank Greaves's Old Joe grows on acquaintance and is a good portraiture of the old domestic nigger The whole company merit all praise for their diligence and fidelity to the public Success and popularity always follow such virtues.

Dempsey was asked yesterday if there was any truth in the statement that the club was thinking of offering a purse for a match between him and some fighter beside LaBlanche

I do not know whether I would fight unless a purse larger than the one for which the Marine and I fought were offered replied Jack 'I don't know, but you might say that my fight with LaBlanche was my last battle until I meet him again' He has promised me another go but he told a friend of mine that he would make me wait three years for it. He claims that I made him wait that long for a second fight. That is not true. I was ready to fight him if he could raise money, but he could find no one to back him I was not in the business for fun

NOTES FROM ASTORIA

ASTORIA Sept 6

Times are reported as being very good in the logging camps of the Willapa and more prosperous than they have been for years.

"A ride to sea on a locomotive" is what some of the visitors call a trip on the railroad track to the present terminus of the Fort Stevens jetty It is a unique and pleasing experience but soon loses its novelty

The attention of the fish commissioners is called to a fish trap that has been fishing all this month and probably all last month The trap is located between Skamokawa and Eagle Cliff it is believed that the parties operating the trap are salting the salmon

There is a policeman in Portland named John Kerrigan who has rescued eleven men from drowning in the Willamette river and who deserves substantial recognition for his bravery It takes a brave man to volunteer to save a drowning person and a cool one to do it successfully
